WILMINGTON — On last Friday, May 11, Dianna DiGregorio was announced as the 2018 Wilmington Good Guy at a dinner held at the Wilmington Knights of Columbus.

The "Good Guy" award is given annually to a Wilmington citizen who continually works to make the local community a better place to live. Nominated by family members, friends, town officials, and fellow committee members throughout the community, DiGregorio is known for her active role in the community, participating on and leading a variety of community service committees and projects.

A native of Wilmington, DiGregorio's love for her hometown has inspired her to volunteer to better her community. She believes volunteer work provides her with a platform in which to help those in the community while also setting a precedent for positive change.

"It gives me a chance to give something back to the community and its residents by making a positive difference to the people around me," DiGregorio said. "It's the small, and sometimes large things that have a big impact on others."

The organizations DiGregorio works with throughout the community all strive to make improvements to and serve the Wilmington community. They include the 4th of July Committee, the Wilmington Community Fund, the Strategic Planning Committee of the Wilmington Public Library, the Food Pantry, and Wilmington's 275th Anniversary Committee. She served on the boards of a few of these organizations, notable as President of the Wilmington Community Fund and Secretary of the 4th of July Committee.

Her work with the Wilmington Public Library was also notable; she helped carry out the library's annual shredding day, and was an

Legal risk and open adoptions: A family profile for Foster Care Awareness Month

By CHRISTINA HAINES
News Correspondent

WILMINGTON — May is National Foster Care Awareness Month, and the Town Crier is profiling the diverse experiences of local families who have adopted from foster care or served as foster families.

Five years ago, Steve and Emily Gardner of Wilmington adopted a sibling group of three from foster care. The children are now ages 6, 8, and 10. As is the case for most babies and toddlers in foster care, the Gardner's children were not legally available for adoption at the time they were placed in the Gardner's home, a status known as "legal risk." Though it can be a fraught process, legal risk adoptions and open adoption agreements can be beneficial to children, and are increasingly common.

"We were really hoping not to foster and then be split up," said Emily Gardner, a second grade teacher at Abundant Life Christian School and Learning Center.

The number of babies and toddlers eligible for adoption across the country is small, as many very young children are reunified with their birth families after time in foster care. Yet, the Gardners knew they wanted to adopt a baby and were prepared to accept the legal risk.

After completing a home study and becoming licensed to adopt from foster care, the Gardners awaited a call from their social worker about a baby in need of a home. They were soon presented with the opportunity to be a pre-adoptive home for three siblings, all under the age of three.

Though initially only planning for one child, the Gardner's decided they would take the sibling group, rather than seeing the children split up across multiple homes. Overnight, the Gardner's prepared their home for three children.

"Everyone who knows us was really supportive," said Gardner of the help the couple received, including donations of baby supplies from friends, family and members of their church.

Former state aid looks to occupy seat in the House State Rep. candidate, Robertson learned a lot from Miceli

By CASSIA BURNS
News Correspondent

TEWKSBURY/WILMINGTON — In this fall's upcoming race to fill the late Jim Miceli's seat on the Massachusetts House of Representatives, Miceli's former aide, David Robertson will be a candidate.

Crediting his work with Miceli as teaching him more about local politics than he learned in his undergrad education, Robertson has many years of recent experience handling constituent issues.

Identifying as a moderate Democrat, Robertson was born and raised locally in Tewksbury. He graduated from Tewksbury Memorial High School, where he was a member of the band and track team. He then went on to attend UMass Amherst, where he graduated with a double major in Political Science and Economics.

In college, he was served as the Undergraduate Secretary for External Affairs, a position in which he would meet with Amherst town officials and police to discuss the impact the university had on the town's operations, and how to deal with resulting conflicts. He was also a member of young leaders group known as C-100, where he helped to spread democracy in Russia, as well as advocate for the Magnitsky bill. The Magnitsky bill was filed by Senator Ben Cardin and Senator John McCain and signed by President Obama; it helped sanction certain criminals who assassinated a Russian accountant who uncovered widespread global fraud.

First beginning to work with Miceli in 2008, Robertson's mindset regarding local politics was heavily influenced by him.

Tewksbury resident looks to occupy seat in the House Buckley ready to let constituents decide what's important TEWKSBURY — Tewksbury's Erin Buckley joins the ranks for the race for state representative for the 19th district, the seat previously occupied for almost 40 years by the late Jim Miceli.

Buckley explained that she's chosen to run in these circumstances because it's an opportunity she feels like she can't miss.

Buckley is ready to jump into this election because of her experience working in the government.

"Opportunities at the congressional level for republicans in Massachusetts don't pop up every day," she said.

Her political experience started in college at Salem State University at 28 years old, where she majored in Political Science.

After college, she jumped right into the political sphere. She started interning at the governor's office, in the Executive Office of Administration and Finance. There, she helped create the gov-

Officer Skinner helps family evacuate burning home

By LIZZY HILL

WILMINGTON — Wilmington Police Officer Kevin Skinner shared that the owners of the house at 9 Ohio St. that caught fire early Saturday morning have been in contact with their insurance company to assess the damage. When fire started around 1 a.m. Saturday morning, it was a neighbor who saw the fire on the back deck and called the police department. Luckily, Officer Skinner was already close by and able to help.

"Skinner responded immediately," said Wilmington Chief Michael Begonis. "He was able to wake up the family and get them out."

The Patch reported that the residence houses a family of two and their four pets.

It was shortly after Skinner's arrival that Begonis mentioned that more Wilmington officers made it to the scene to help. He's happy to report that everyone made it out safely.

"It was just another day for us," he continued.

The fire was quickly put out by a combination of Wilmington, Tewksbury, and Billerica firefighters.

"It was actually a great save," Billerica Fire Captain Matthew Battock said in regards to Skinner's rescue effort.

According to Skinner, the owners believe that the fire was started by cigarettes continuing to burn from inside an industrial-sized ashtray.

Wilmington Fire was not available to confirm or comment for the story. The cause of the fire remains under investigation.

2018 TAX LAW — PART III —

Education tax breaks

The Lifetime Learning Credit and Student Loan Interest Deduction are still in place, and the exclusion for graduate school tuition waivers survives as well. One significant change is that the bill expands the available use of funds saved in a 529 college savings plan to include levels of education other than college. In other words, if you have children in private school, or you pay for tutoring for your child in the K-12 grade levels, you can use the money in your account for these expenses.

Mortgage interest

The mortgage interest deduction can only be taken on mortgage debt of up to $750,000, down from $1 million currently. This only applies to mortgages taken after Dec. 15, 2017; pre-existing mortgages are grandfathered in. And the interest on home equity debt can no longer be deducted at all, instead of up to $100,000 in home equity debt previously deductible.

Charitable contributions

Taxpayers can now deduct donations of as much as 60% of their income, up from a 50% cap. However, donations made to a college in exchange for the right to purchase athletic tickets will no longer be deductible.

Medical expenses

The threshold for the medical expenses deduction has been reduced from 10% of adjusted gross income (AGI) to 7.5% of AGI. In other words, if your adjusted gross income is $50,000, you can now deduct any unreimbursed medical expenses over $3,750, not $5,000 as set by prior tax law. Unlike most other provisions in the bill, this is retroactive to the 2017 tax year.

Sometimes, things work out great. Other times, it's a struggle.

Last week's WHS promenade aired live on WCTV and it went off without a hitch. This is a great tradition in town and one that we're happy to be able to bring to you. I like to think of the aunts, cousins or grandparents who don't get to make it to the actual event but can still see the seniors walking down the gym floor as it's happening.

Friday night's Good Guy airing didn't go as well. As noted in this space last week, the video feedback to our studio from that location isn't great. Unfortunately, even after plenty of testing, it was even worse than we anticipated. Instead of the full event, only 20-30-minute pieces of the evening got on air. We're sorry to those of you who tuned in, only to find a black screen with a "technical difficulties" crawl.

But, just because it didn't work doesn't mean we won't try to do it again. As a community media center, we operate on a small budget compared to commercial stations. But we continue to look for ways to do what they do, especially in terms of live coverage of big events.

That might mean we have an occasional hiccup on air or something we had been planning to cover falls apart at the last minute. It's bound to happen as we push the envelope for what's possible. I just hope you cut us some slack and come along for the ride.

On Monday, we were back live with two more events: the regular Selectmen meeting and a Wilmington High School baseball game. It was our first time going live for baseball, but we'll try to do more sports going forward.

And remember, 9 times out of 10, even if the live feed isn't working, the recording is fine. Look for the full Good Guy ceremony soon on WCTV! And in the meantime, enjoy a short highlight clip we posted on our Facebook feed this week.

New Programs:

These air on one of WCTV's 3 television stations (Public: Comcast 9/Verizon 37 - Government: Comcast 22/Verizon 38 - Education: Comcast 99/Verizon 39). You can also watch them at WCTV.org.

• WHS Baseball vs. Wakefield (WCTV Education): The game we aired live was a good one: a two-hit shut-out!

• WHS Softball vs. Burlington (WCTV Education): See two of the top teams in the league face off at Town Park.

• WHS Promenade (WCTV Education): Dozens of seniors showed off their dresses and tuxes before heading off to Prom.

• Wilmington Memorial Library Pet Show (WCTV Public): This was the first pet show of its kind, inside the library.

• Where's Wilmington (WCTV Public): This latest episode is all about organ donation and how it can save lives.

Upcoming Live:

• Spring Chorus Concert (WCTV Education): Wednesday, May 23 at 7 p.m.

• WHS Scholarship Night (WCTV Education): Friday, June 1 at 6:30 p.m.

• WHS Graduation (WCTV Education): Sunday, June 3 at 2 p.m.

Check out WCTV.org for more information on when programs will be televised and how you can get involved at your community television station. Membership is free and there's no time commitment.

Produce a show, help in studio or cover a community event that you care about! We're here to make the process as simple as possible.

History:

Rough on Rats - Romance, cattle and the Gowing family

By PAUL D. EMMONS

Picturesque Wilmington! Interesting memories. Curious coincidences of fate and circumstance which tie up to the past and effect our present lives.

In the summer of 1887 we boarded at the Hamlen's. Romance was in the air. Bert Buck was courting Emma Hamlen, and in the fall, he married her. Another romance was also in the making, culminating on the celebrated croquet grounds of Aunt Lizzie Blanchard, the marriage of Annie Gowing and her cousin, Fred Gowing.

Annie Gowing's father was William E. Gowing, brother of the ill-fated George Gowing, who had built the Hamlen House. William E. Gowing lived next door to his brother George and carried on a thriving meat business there.

Herds of cattle from Bright-ton were driven over the road, corralled in his cow yard, slaughtered and dressed in the old slaughter barn which is still standing on the opposite side of the road. The meat was then packed in large two-horse teams, like the covered wagons of western pioneer days, and driven over the road to Lawrence where it was sold.

William E. Gowing did a large wholesale business, for those days, having 75 to 100 head in his yard all the time. The steers were driven through a runway to the edge of the barn floor, shot through the head with a rifle, skinned, hauled up by an overhead windlass, and suspended by their hind legs while the carcass was quartered and trimmed. The meat was then put in refrigerators on ice supplied by a man named Holt from Andover, who cut it from the meadow where George Gowing and his wife were drowned. (Brown's Crossing - ed.)

Holt had an ice house at the edge of that meadow, long since been torn down. Frank L. Eames bought it from him in 1877 and started the first retail ice business in Wilmington.

Butchering was a widespread industry in town, several members of the Buck, Eames and Carter families being engaged in it, but one of the most picturesque figures was Horace Sheldon, son of the celebrated Asa G. Sheldon. He was a drover, the only one in Wilmington in the early days. Every Tuesday, he went to Brighton, and came back with a herd of cattle, cutting out and delivering a dozen or more at a time to his different customers along the way. By nightfall, he would reach Ruel Carter's place in Woburn, where he would herd in for the night, then finish his trip to Wilmington the next day.

Aldice Eames remembers how as a small boy attending the East School, he used to climb the stone wall to get out of the way of the long-horned steers coming up the road, and George Buck can tell you how Horace Sheldon's ox team used to make daily trips with the manure and offal from William E. Gowing's slaughter barn, carrying it down Sheldon's farm on Woburn Street (just beyond Wildwood Street - ed.) to spread it on the land for fertilizer.

A quarter of beef sold in the wholesale trade at somewhere from 7 to 9 1/2 cents a pound. About 1870, William E. Gowing, finding that he could buy cheaper in Chicago than in Brighton, moved to Lawrence and went into partnership with a man named Higgins, whose wife was related to the Swift family. Gowing became an agent for Swift's, and lived in Lawrence for several years, but his love for Wilmington and his connection with the Blanchard family (his wife was a niece of Aunt Lizzie's) drew him back.

Coincidentally, my family had picked the Hamlen place for their summer vacation in 1887 because it was a good one for kids, I being a two-legged three-year old at the time. Later it was Pinemere Farm, given over to raising four-legged kids.

(Editor's note: The above article was written in the 1930's by Paul D. Emmons, a lawyer, historian and writer who lived at the corner of Middlesex Avenue and Salem Street, opposite the Cadwallader Ford house, where Aunt Lizzie Blanchard lived. Emmons and his sister died in a 1959 fire which destroyed the house and his considerable collection of Wilmington history.

Aunt Lizzie Blanchard and Walter Ford Blanchard were grandchildren of Cadwallader Ford, Jr., Captain of a company of Minute Men and later a messenger in the Revolutionary War. Walter's daughter Charlotte married William E. Gowing.

The Hamlens (also spelled Hamlin) lived in the house on Andover Street that is now owned by the Krey family. A portion of the house was cut off and moved, and is now the Webster home.

William E. Gowing lived in the Jensen house. The slaughter barn, across the street, was burned by an arsonist in 1967.

Bert Buck (Herbert N. Buck) founded Buck Bros. grocery store in North Wilmington. His son Rodney ran the store for many years, then sold it to John Elia, Jr. in 1956.)

RMLD honors local high school students following art contest

'Good Guy' DiGregorio thanks family, volunteers

To the editor,
I am honored and gratefully accept the Good Guy Award and to join past members who I have long admired and respected. A very special thank you to the Good Guy Committee for selecting me and an enormous salute to all of the past year's nominees each of whom have made incredible contributions in our community.

I thank my husband Michael and my daughter Rachel for their support through the years, and to my mother Mary who taught me to be true to myself. I'm grateful for my family and friends who have supported me as well.

Thank you to all who wrote letters in favor of my nomination. Also, it was a great honor to have so many entertaining and enlightening speakers during the award ceremony. Of the many organizations I belong to, I work with many wonderful volunteers. I want to thank them for their hard work and time spent volunteering. They are critical to the success of the organization(s) for their tireless commitments.

What does volunteering mean to me? The simple answer is: everything! Volunteering doesn't have to involve a long-term commitment or take a huge amount of time out of your busy day. But by giving, even in simple ways, you can help others benefit from your actions.

Today I am more committed than ever to the community that has brought me so much joy.

TMHS students help to mentor middle school students

TMHS Correspondent

For the past several years, Tewksbury Memorial High School's Peer Leadership club has joined forces with the Ryan School to introduce new methods of guidance and mentorship to younger students.

Those who are selected for Peer Leadership have proved themselves to be invaluable pillars of leadership in the community, whether it be through sports captainships, club presidencies, or holding various other positions which require some competency with regards to being a leader.

Each year, the group of students chosen for Peer Leadership is tasked with corresponding back and forth with a random Ryan School student in an effort to form, or strengthen, bonds between the older and younger communities of students in Tewksbury.

This year proved to be no exception, as on Wednesday, May 16, TMHS students vacationed down the street to the Ryan Elementary School, where they would finally meet the students with whom they had been exchanging letters.

And, to the surprise of few, the end result was a productive bonding activity on a sunny spring afternoon. Of course, the occasional hiccups of awkwardness were present — hardly a surprise considering the age gap and somewhat stilted forms of communication that had served as a precursor to the meeting — but nothing major enough to serve as a severe setback.

Tewksbury High's Peer Leadership has found itself in its current state due in large part to a productive co-advisory team of Deb Glass and Pat Ryser, both of whom remain dedicated to providing students with the tools necessary to transform themselves into suitable leaders. Look no further than this particular activity, which not only allows high schoolers to provide advice to middle schoolers, but it also proves high schoolers with the opportunity to further sharpen their leadership traits.

Unfortunately for both the program and the students, Ryser will be calling it a career in a few months, but Glass will certainly ensure that valuable programs such as this will not only continue to stay afloat, but truly thrive, or possibly even reach unprecedented levels of success.

Tips for taxpayers who missed April filing deadline

While the federal income tax-filing deadline has come and gone for most people, some taxpayers still haven't filed or paid their taxes.

Here are some tips for handling common issues after the filing deadline has passed:

- Anyone who didn't file and owes tax should file a return as soon as possible and pay as much as possible to reduce penalties and interest. There's no penalty for filing a late return if a refund is due. Penalties and interest only accrue on unfilled returns of taxpayers who don't pay by the deadline.

- For those who qualify, IRS Free File is still available on IRS.gov through Oct. 15 to prepare and file returns electronically.

- Filing soon is especially important because the late-filing penalty on unpaid taxes adds up quickly. Alternatively, taxpayers who have a history of filing and paying on time sometimes qualify for penalty relief.

- Taxpayers who owe taxes can view their balance, and pay with IRS Direct Pay, or by debit or credit card. They can also apply online for a payment plan, including an installment agreement. Before accessing their tax account online, users must authenticate their identity through the Secure Access process. Several other electronic payment options are available on IRS.gov/payments.

- The IRS will usually correct any math errors on a return and notify the taxpayer by mail. Similarly, the agency will send a letter requesting any missing forms or schedules.

Six smart money moves for new college graduates

WAKEFIELD — More than 70 percent of college graduates began their career owing more than $37,000 in student loans in 2017. Considering the additional living expenses they'll soon face, new college graduates would be wise to focus on their financial future right now, according to The Savings Bank.

The bank has highlighted six smart financial decisions college graduates should consider to position themselves for financial success as they embark on their next phase of life.

"The habits new graduates develop right now will have a big effect on their financial future," said Bob DiBella, President of the Savings Bank. "Living expenses add up quickly once you're out on your own, and many young adults who didn't plan ahead are delaying major milestones like getting married or buying a home because of their financial situation. The good news is that you can have a bright financial future if you think strategically about money right out of the gate."

The Savings Bank recommends the following financial tips for new college graduates:

- Live within your means. Supporting yourself can be expensive, and you can quickly find yourself struggling financially if you don't take time to create a budget. Calculate the amount of money you're taking home after taxes, then figure out how much money you can afford to spend each month while contributing to your savings. Be sure to factor in recurring expenses such as student loans, monthly rent, utilities, groceries, transportation expenses and car loans.

- Pay bills on time. Missed payments can hurt your credit history for up to seven years and can affect your ability to get loans, the interest rates you pay and your ability to get a job or rent an apartment. Consider setting up automatic payments for regular expenses like student loans, car payments and phone bills. Take advantage of any reminders or notification features. You can also contact creditors and lenders to request a different monthly due date from the one provided by default (e.g., switching from the 1st of the month to the 15th).

- Avoid racking up too much debt. Understand the responsibilities and benefits of credit. Shop around for a card that best suits your needs and spend only what you can afford to pay back. Credit is a great tool, but only if you use it responsibly.

- Plan for retirement. It may seem odd since you're just beginning your career, but now is the best time to start planning for your retirement. Contribute to retirement accounts like a Roth IRA or your employer's 401(k), especially if there is a company match. Invest enough to qualify for your company's full match — it's free money that adds up to a significant chunk of change over the years. Automatic retirement contributions quickly become part of your financial lifestyle without having to think about it.

- Prepare for emergencies. Hardships can happen in a split second. Start an emergency fund and do your best to set aside the equivalent of three to six months' worth of living expenses. Start saving immediately, no matter how small the amount. Make saving a part of your lifestyle with automatic payroll deductions or automatic transfers from checking to savings. Put your tax refund toward saving instead of an impulse buy.

- Get free help from your bank. Many banks offer personalized financial checkups to help you identify and meet your financial goals. You can also take advantage of their free digital banking tools that let you check balances, pay bills, deposit checks, monitor transaction history and track your budget.

Established in 1869, The Savings Bank is a $598 million community bank with offices in Wakefield, Lynnfield, North Reading, Andover, and Methuen.

OBITUARIES

Thomas P. Coyne, Jr.

Enlisted in the United States Navy Reserves

Thomas P. Coyne, Jr., age 69, of Wilmington, formerly of Charlestown, passed away unexpectedly at home on May 9, 2018.

Tom entered the world on July 17, 1948; he was born and raised in Charlestown and was the dear son of the late Thomas and Margaret Coyne.

Tom was a true "townie" and was very proud of his Irish roots; as a youngster he went to St. Mary's Church where he served as an altar boy and attended St. Mary's School; Tom went on to graduate from Matignon High School with the Class of 1966.

Following graduation, Tom continued his education at Northeastern University in Boston; he was in the Co-op Program and earned his Bachelor of Science in Business Administration with a concentration in Accounting in 1971.

That same year, Tom, enlisted in the United States Navy Reserves; he served six years as a reservist where he went to many training exercises including a stint aboard the USS Wasp. Tom was honorably discharged from the Naval Reserves in May of 1977.

Tom worked hard to provide for his family; he was employed in the finance field holding various positions across many organizations that included Community Workshops, Somerville Hospital, Mass Health Data Consortium, LifeLinks Inc., and other nonprofit agencies. Tom's hard work ethic and knowledge of his field made him quite an asset to his profession.

Tom married his wife Susan Broderick on Nov. 6, 1976; the couple moved to Wilmington in 1978 where they raised three wonderful children: Matthew, Andrew, and Meghan.

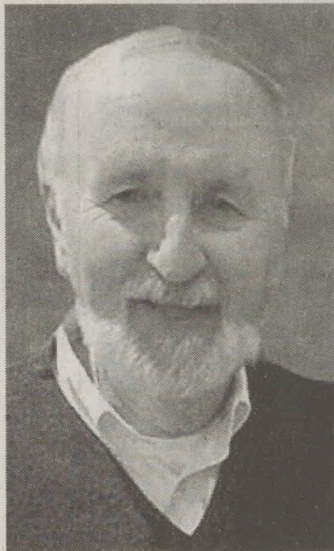

Tom was a very devoted and loving father; he was very involved in his children's school and sporting events and was their biggest supporter. When Tom's boys got involved in Wilmington Little League so did he; Tom coached little league for many years, ran the snack shack and was their treasurer for over 20 years.

Tom stayed involved long after his sons were grown; he was always doing something and helping other children in the community. Tom was very proud of his children and the adults that had become; they were really his pride and joy.

In later years, Tom became "Pop Pop" to Abigail, Aubrey, Parker and Emma; his world became even brighter. Tom cherished the time he spent with his grandchildren, enjoyed watching them grow and was always there to lend a hand whenever needed.

Tom will be fondly remembered for his love of his family dogs — Barney, Rake, and Dane — his passion for all Boston sports teams and his ability to be a great friend and neighbor. Tom loved his family with all his heart and he will forever be missed.

Tom was the beloved husband of Susan E. (Broderick) Coyne, devoted father of Matthew R. Coyne & wife Courtney of Burlington, Andrew T. Coyne & wife Chantal of Wilmington and Meghan F. Coyne of Wilmington. Loving "Pop Pop" of Abigail Alice, Aubrey Frances, Parker Thomas, and Emma Rose.

Cherished son of the late Thomas P. and Margaret (Tagen) Coyne, dear brother of Margaret Crowley & husband David of Melrose and Stephen Coyne & wife Nancy of Salem, NH. Tom is also survived by his mother-in-law Frances Broderick of Norwood as well as many brothers and sisters-in-law, nieces and nephews.

Family and friends gathered at the Nichols Funeral Home, 187 Middlesex Ave. (Rt. 62), Wilmington, on Monday, May 14 at 9 a.m. followed by a Mass of Christian Burial in St. Thomas of Villanova Church, 126 Middlesex Ave., Wilmington at 10 a.m. Interment followed in Wildwood Cemetery, Wilmington. Finding bargains in BRIMFIELD

By PAIGE IMPINK

► Memory lane — my grandparent's had these coffee tables.

▼ If you can dream it, you can find it at Brimfield!

(Paige Impink photos)

The Brimfield Antiques market has been on my list for a very long time. I finally had the chance to visit on Sunday, the last day of the May market week. To those in the collecting world, just say "Brimfield" and they know what you are talking about — the granddaddy of all antique markets in the country.

Tiny Brimfield, Massachusetts is just off of Route 84 near Sturbridge, Massachusetts. The 3,000 or so resident population can swell to 20,000 on market weeks — held in May, July and September — for six days each. Vendors from all over the country bring their wares to show, towing trailers, stuffing vans, converting RVs and even renting tractor trailers. This is serious business, folks.

Brimfield has hosted the fair since 1959 and is considered the premiere antique and collectible show, hosting thousands of dealers and hundreds of thousands of visitors. Cash is the currency of preference and considered the best route for a deal, though some do take credit cards.

Vendors set up in large tents within "market places," which are really just giant open fields with row after row of dealers. Mid-century modern furniture could be right up next to a rug dealer and across from a vendor of antique garden tools.

Flea market finds range from Fiesta ware to 1960s Mixmasters, footstools and board games reminiscent of your youth. Even if you are not shopping for specific items, wandering by the giant coffee Thermos your dad took to work or spying the apron your grandmother used to wear, seeing the tin S&H greens stamp sign that was at your hometown filling station or catching a glimpse of that banana seat bike you always wanted — the memories that come flooding back are worth the visit alone.

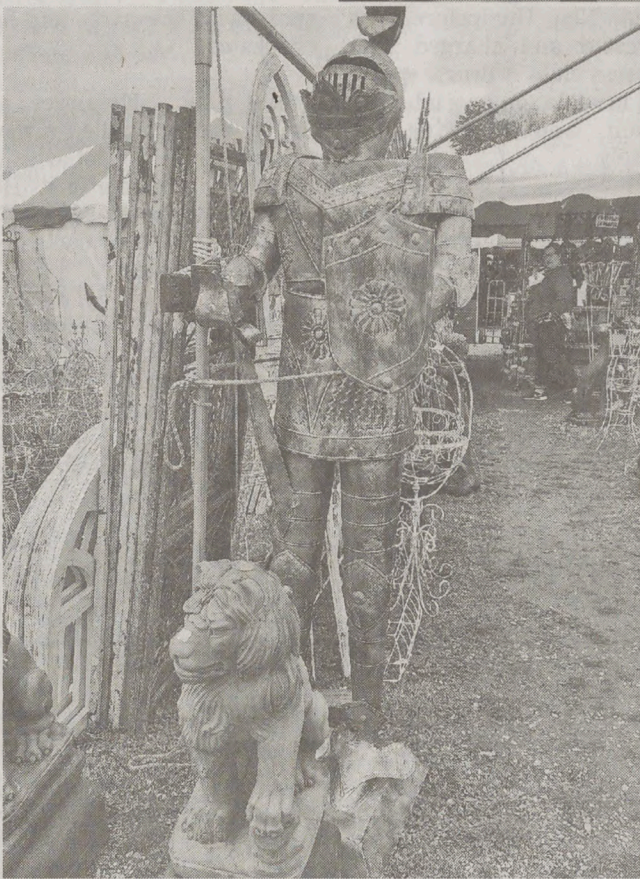

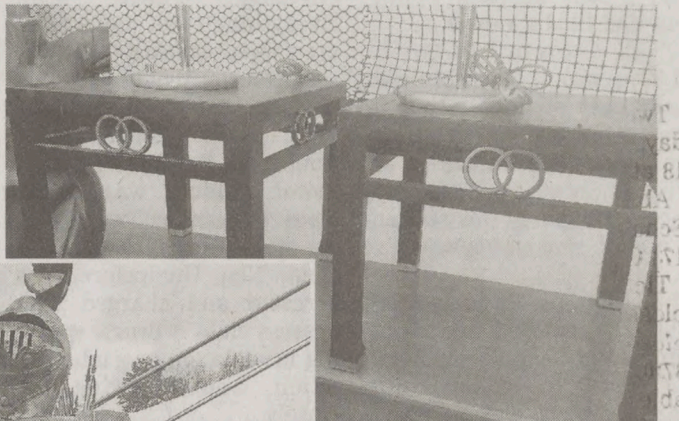

Items are new, salvaged, upcycled, vintage, or antique and span toys, postcards, garden ornaments, tools, door knobs, marine hardware, old military clothing, license plate birdhouses, handcrafts, furniture and so forth. Dealer fields are too numerous to list.

We parked in a lot in the middle of it all and worked our way down one side of the road and then up the other, making a giant loop that lasted six hours. Food trucks and vendors are plentiful, serving up every fried midway favorite with some cool food trucks thrown in for grilled cheese, rice, bao, tacos, drinks and more.

Good walking shoes are recommended as we easily covered four miles and could have done more on a peak market day. White vendor tents extend as far as the eye can see in any direction. Shoppers line both sides of Route 20 in Brimfield and just walk along the road, turning down to explore an aisle when something catches their fancy. Bring a bag to carry your finds as there are numerous accessories you surely can't live without.

Furniture shoppers should bring measurements and able if you get stuck.

An observation about the market is that not everything is unique or one of a kind, or even vintage. Galvanized metal olive baskets were very popular and seemed to be at almost every stand. I noticed a similar price point on like items at different places in the market, so buyer beware and cruise around before committing. I liked the beverage coolers made out of recycled cafeteria pans set on welded and painted stands and unexpectedly wound up buying a 1950's wire record stand which will hold my files quite nicely.

No luck finding a sideboard or dining room rug, but the fresh, hot cider doughnuts from Faddy's made all of that tolerable. Mark your calendar for the Brimfield Shows and make a plan to check it out in July or September this year.

▲ Visitors walk up and down Route 20 scouting for bargains and unique finds.

◀ Faddy's Donuts are an institution and the perfect energy boost for touring the market.

Sullivan hanging up her keyboard

By MATT FRONDUTO

21 years. For 21 years Susan Sullivan has provided the students of Tewksbury Memorial High School with some of the most valuable technological skills that a high school could offer. And after 21 years, Sullivan is finally ready to leave behind the world of computer screens and the hustle and bustle of a technology-filled life.

As the teacher of such classes as Microsoft Office,

Desktop Publishing, Web Design, and Web 2.0 (her personal favorite), the world of electronics is nothing new to Sullivan; however, this is in stark contrast to the life she aspires to lead in retirement.

She envisions a world in which she frequently visits her daughter, son-in-law and grandson in Seattle, as well as often participating in 5k road races, skiing, and hiking activities — especially hiking all 48 of the NH 4000 footers.

Sullivan, although she immensely enjoys her work with students in the classroom, takes a special interest in her work with Tewksbury High's Yearbook Committee, which she has run for five years. Some of the best bonds she has made with colleagues and students have come through her participation in the committee, Sullivan said, and these people will actually be the aspect she most misses about the community surrounding TMHS.

Sullivan's life has been a story with many chapters, from attending Plymouth State College for business education, first teaching students to type on a typewriters before computers, six years in corporate America, to her time at Tewksbury High — her retirement will be nothing more than yet another chapter in an already incredible life story, and she is ready to write the next pages.

First Chamber Golf Classic

On Monday, April 30th, the Wilmington/Tewksbury Chamber of Commerce held its 1st Chamber Golf Classic at the beautiful Tewksbury Country Club. For most, it was their first golf outing of the year and they certainly did not let the dampened weather affect their excitement. Golfers enjoyed a fun day of on-course contests, raffles, gift bags, continental breakfast and a BBQ lunch in the TCC ballroom. Nancy Vallee, Chamber Executive Director, says she was thrilled with the success of the day and based on the positive feedback from participants the Chamber will definitely be hosting the tournament again next year. A huge shout out to Marc Ginsberg and the team at Tewksbury Country Club for always going above and beyond for our Chamber and business com-

Family details adoption process

Before the finalization of an adoption, children in foster care are legally in the custody of the state's Department of Children and Families (DCF), which brings a number of requirements for foster and pre-adoptive parents. Among other requirements, these include getting permission from a social worker to transport a child across state lines, getting permission to cut a child's hair, reporting on medical and education appointments, and monthly visits from a state social worker. The Gardner's juggled these duties with the expected chaos of three young children and became adept at taking advantage of resources and advocating for the children's needs.

"The schools here have been remarkable," said Steve Gardner, a plumber. "There's been a lot of work from a few specific teachers in the school. They pour their heart and soul into her," he said of his eldest daughter's experience at the Woburn Street Elementary School.

The Gardner's adoption was finalized almost two years after the children were placed in their home.

"Every once in a while [during that two-year period] the fear would creep back in, 'what if this doesn't work through?'" remembered Emily Gardner.

The Gardner's could eventually rest assured that they were now the legal parents of their children, though they did retain an open adoption agreement with the children's birth mother, which calls for two visits per year.

"I think in the long run it will be really good," said Emily Gardner. "When they hit 15, 18... and they have to figure out where they came from. They'll know who she is. She's a face to them. That will help them when they come to terms with their identity."

Although most people in their life were supportive of adoption, the Gardner's did encounter concerns and warnings from acquaintances. Steve Gardner reflects on persistent perceptions about children in foster care that fail to take into account strengths.

"I think it's the horror stories people hear," he said. "How many TV shows do you watch where the adopted kid is the troubled kid? [Adopted children] they get a lot of negative stereotypes."

For the Gardner's, adoption is a fact about how their children came into their life, but not the primary way they think of their children.

"Once they were in my house, they were my kids. I don't mind telling people they're adopted. I'm not ashamed of it at all. But they're just my kids," said Emily Gardner.

Seeing the progress their children are making in their well-being and development is a joy for the Gardner's that sustains them during challenging times.

"When someone who doesn't see them as often will say something about how far they've come. That means more than anything else from anybody," said Emily Gardner.

Steve Gardner was reminded of the positive changes in his daughter thanks to a series of school pictures — his daughter's grinning, healthy appearance in a June photo standing in contrast to the somber expression at the start of the year.

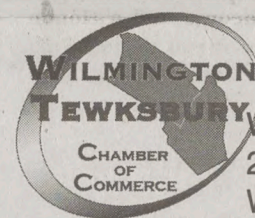

"We saw her every day. You didn't see that transformation, but to see it next to each other in a picture..." he said of the moment of realization.

The Gardner's offer advice to prospective adoptive parents: learn as much as possible about a potential child's history, consider behavior dynamics among sibling groups or children already in the home, and have patience for the unpredictable timeline. They also remind parents to seek out and utilize help.

"Take advantage of the resources they give you," said Steve Gardner of programs and benefits offered by the state to adoptive families, like medical insurance or counseling services.

Overall, the Gardner's conclude, "It's a long process. Stick with it!"

Wilmington Sons of Italy

Angelo Giuseppe Roncalli Lodge #2183

P.O. Box 387

Wilmington, MA 01887

The Wilmington Sons of Italy was founded March 12, 1967 by Laura Caira, Frances Gray, and George Murray and boasted 94 members at its installation and institution ceremonies, held at the Tewksbury K of C and conducted by then Grand Venerable John Guarino and Grand Orator Aldo Caira.

After meeting for many years at the Grange Hall, the dream of owning our own lodge home became a reality in 1976. Through the efforts of members of our Building Trust: Rico Catalano, Vincent Puma, Bob Dicey, Aldo Caira, Michael Caira, Jim Capozzi, Rocco DePasquale, Chris S. DiCecca, Fred Miller, and Jim Rando, a state-of-the-art lodge home was built on Ballardvale Street. After many years of enjoying memorable events, the lodge was sold in 1996. Monthly lodge meetings are now held the fourth Thursday of the month at Villanova Hall at 7:30 p.m. following a light dinner at 6:30 p.m.

Our lodge has been blessed with the following committed and dedicated members who have served as President:

The Wilmington

ton Sons of Italy Lodge has been lauded by the Board of Selectmen and School Committee for its community service, involvement, and generosity. Though it has been a major contributor to charities since 1967, since the sale of our building in 1996, we can account for $1.6 million dollars in contributions to various charities and community activities and fundraisers. Notable contributions include: scholarships, uniforms for all varsity high school teams, North Intermediate and Woburn Street School playgrounds, jackets and parade uniforms for WHS marching band, handicapped-accessible van and a BINGO board for senior citizen center, town common's Welcome to Wilmington sign, and the pavilion for Yentile Recreational Facility. Little could our founders and charter members have imagined fifty years ago that their lodge would become one of the most respected charitable and fraternal organizations in the state.

The Wilmington Sons of Italy Lodge sponsors a members' bowling league, a summer bocce league, a softball team, and a Junior Lodge. Socials and fundraisers are held to benefit our charitable work and can be found on the calendar section of our website at www.wilmingtonsoi.org. New members are always welcomed and need not be of Italian heritage. Please contact us at:

"In 2016 I worked for a state senate campaign," she continued.

She worked more with finances for this congressional campaign.

"I saw the impact that a good legislator can have."

Buckley has also been a legislative aid for State Representative Will Crocker. It was in aiding Crocker that Buckley found the part of being a state rep that made her want to be one herself: making a difference in the lives of constituents.

In the meanwhile, Buckley has also been busying herself getting involved in Tewksbury. She started as a Friend of the Tewksbury Library, Cultural Council member, and a volunteer at the food pantry.

"I'm on the Finance Committee and Local Housing partnership," she noted.

It's her desire to serve her community as best as she can that leads her to the campaign trail.

"This is my home and my community. I want to be as involved as I can be."

With her combined experience in the town and in the State House already, Buckley believes that she makes an excellent candidate this November.

The skills that she's been honing as a legislative aid allow Buckley to promise to focus on her constituents should she be elected.

"You see the process firsthand as an extension of the representative," she shared. "My entire reason would be to concentrate on constituent issues because I already know how important it is."

While she does have some concerns in mind, she's standing on a platform of letting constituents lead and decide the work that she does.

Her time involved in Tewksbury has let her on to what the major issues are right now in town. She first mentioned overdevelopment.

"I think that fighting for open air should be a priority for both communities."

She's also passionate about bringing affordable housing for seniors and veterans and increasing the amount of librarians in schools so that there's steady access to all of the tools that students need for a great education.

A concern that Buckley has for Tewksbury is the raising of taxes.

"This year, there were only two budget pieces being debated [at Town Meeting]," she said.

It's a goal of hers to be a voice that challenges more of the town budget. She's ready to debate budgets so that resources are allocated in the right places according to what is best for both towns.

Besides an understanding of ongoing issues, Buckley promises to keep herself involved in future issues.

"All you really have to do is be an ear to listen to... individuals and it makes all the difference in their lives."

Being available for residents is something that she wants to continue to be able to do for Tewksbury and also for Wilmington. She wants to be an extension of both towns on Beacon Hill.

This Republican candidate for state representative this coming November is also pro-life and pro-second amendment. She's currently supporting Representative Joe McKenna's proposal change to the red flag bill. Buckley has high hopes for a positive outcome in the race for the 19th district seat.

those who voted for you,' meaning that he always voted the way the towns felt that he should, as they sent him to Beacon Hill to voice their opinion," Robertson said. "It was very much the reason he was so popular in addition to his constituent services; he took the title of Representative literally. I intend to be the same way."

Robertson's work with Miceli also taught him to respond to the issues the public was passionate about, whether it be small-scale issues, such as potholes and trash pickup, or larger issues such as the opioid epidemic and homelessness. In order to follow through with this, Robertson plans to be readily accessible, intending to hold regular office hours, attend local functions and honors, and meet with townspeople to address personal crisis if elected.

In terms of his goals for office if he is elected, Robertson plans on focusing on three major local issues that affect both Tewksbury and Wilmington. They are promoting businesses to fill vacant storefronts, examining and planning to help mitigate traffic on major roadways, and planning for affordable housing, for both towns are under threat from 40b developments after the next census. Regarding legislation on a state-wide scale, he plans to focus on Net Neutrality, education, and the ongoing opioid crisis.

As he campaigns, Robertson emphasizes his connection to his home community, and his willingness to serve the public.

"I have always felt an obligation to serve the public, especially my home community. The two towns made me who I am today," he said. "Tewksbury and Wilmington have some tough choices ahead, and I would be honored to help guide and shape them to become better for both the current and future residents, families, and businesses."

Selectmen, School Committee rearrange chairs

By LIZZIE MCDERMOTT

WILMINGTON — At their May 14 meeting, the Board of Selectmen unanimously selected board member Kevin Caira as chair for the coming year.

Caira succeeds longtime Selectman Michael Champoux as Chairman. Champoux did not seek reelection to the board in this year's election.

Caira was nominated by Selectman Greg Bendel. The nomination was quickly seconded by Selectman Ed Loud. Caira thanked the board for their confidence in his ability to lead the board for the next year.

On May 9, the School Committee also voted on their reorganization for the upcoming year.

"I very much enjoyed my year as chairperson, and I am looking forward to new blood in this chair," said 2017-2018 Chairman Steven Bjork.

Following nomination by Committee member Peggy Kane, Julie Broussard was selected as the new chair with a six vote majority and one abstention from MJ Bynes. Committee member Jennifer Bryson was selected unanimously as vice chair.

Recently reelected committee member MJ Byrnes was nominated for the role of Secretary. Peggy Kane also requested consideration for the role of secretary for her final year on the Committee.

"I started out as secretary in my first year, 18 years ago, and now going into the 19th, and that's not a good reason to vote for me; however, I feel like I have earned to be the secretary if that's what's available at this point," Kane said.

"Since it is Peggy's last year, I have no problem giving up that nomination to Peggy," Byrnes responded, and the committee subsequently elected Kane in unanimity.

DiGregorio was also instrumental in the creation of the Community Resources Roundtable. After having an idea of inviting non-profit groups and civil leaders to meet in order to convey and understand their goals in serving the community, DiGregorio met with the director of the Library, Tina Stewart, to set up a meeting for the groups.

After the first meeting, the Community Resources Roundtable was formed, successfully joining representatives of local organizations and civic leaders together in serving the community.

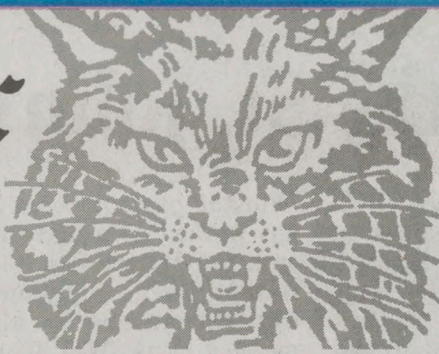

In regards to those she thanks for helping her achieve this award, DiGregorio credits family members, as well as members of the committees she's worked on in helping her to succeed. Her husband, Michael, and daughter, Rachel were key in providing her with support throughout all of her endeavors.

The members and volunteers of the various organizations DiGregorio works with are among those she is most grateful to. These include the members of the 4th of July Committee, members of the Wilmington Community Fund, volunteers at the Food Pantry, and all those who attend the Community Resources Roundtable meetings.

"Though I stood up there alone, the award goes to all the wonderful volunteers I work with," she stated. "They are critical to the success of the organization(s) and it is an honor to work beside them."

DiGregorio thanks the Good Guy Committee, as well as the people who wrote recommendation letters for her to receive this award, and those who spoke at the ceremony. She looks forward to continuing to help the community through her service projects in the future.

WHS Junior and No. 1 singles player

Hill emerging as one of the all-time best

By JAMIE POTE

jamiepote@hotmail.com
WILMINGTON - It's been three decades since the Wilmington High School Girls Tennis team has had a dominating No. 1 singles player. The program's greatest player Lisa Cutone-Bacon went undefeated all four years during the mid 1980s, graduating in 1986. It was just last summer when the now Californian resident met the newest Wildcat sensation, Emily Hill.

"I was doing my Wildcat Tennis summer clinic and who shows up is Lisa Cutone-Bacon," recalled

Wilmington High girls' tennis coach Matt Hackett. "She lives out in California now (and was here on vacation). She introduced herself and she was engaging, she was fun and she said she wanted to play Emily. So the following day they played each other. It was a really fun moment. They had a lot of fun and it was a really good match."

"Lisa did beat her, but she was impressed by Emily's play. Lisa's comment was 'if you get this girl to be a little bit more consistent, she's going to be deadly'. Honestly, I think that's what has happened this year, Emily has become a more consistent player."

Hill is in her third season as the team's No. 1 player and it's no coincidence that the team set several program records last year - including team wins (12) and its first ever state tournament victory over North Andover - while the Wildcats are off and running this season to a 9-5 record, clinching a spot in the state tournament on Monday night with a 5-0 night victory over Wakefield.

It's believed that the program only qualified for the state tournament two other times, back in 2008 and 2009 under then head coach Kevin Welch, but both times the Wildcats were defeated in the first round by Arlington Catholic and Swampscott. Last year's magical season seems to have carried over to this season, with Emily on top of the Hill.

"She is winning in impressive fashion," said Hackett. "She is really controlling points. She has rounded out her game. When her serve is on, she is dominant. She's hard to break when her serve is on. Besides that, the one thing I think she has done a much better job with this year is she is using the whole court. She is playing really high percentage tennis and that has made her a much more effective player and has helped her get to that next level. She would compete against someone who was at her level, but she wouldn't be at that next level because the other player was controlling the point."

"This year right off the get-go, she is pushing her opponent deeper, she is using her angles, she is opening the court up and she is making the winning points a lot easier, where last year I think she survived in some of the WILMINGTON - For years, Stew Pruslin supported his friends who participated in the Pan Mass Challenge Bike Ride, which raises millions of dollars for cancer research. When he saw that Wilmington had its own Pan Mass Challenge Bike Ride, but for kids, he quickly asked his son Kevin, who was seven years old at the time, if he wanted to participate. He said yes and now three years later, Kevin has raised nearly $4,000 and will be strapping on the helmet and participating in this Sunday's 13th annual event to be held at Boutwell School beginning at 9:00 am.

"Kevin really enjoys the actual riding including the part where he's doing it with friends," said Stew. WAKEFIELD - For the second year in a row and what's believed to be the fourth time in program history, the Wilmington High School Girls Tennis team has qualified for the Division 2 North Sectional tournament after blanking Wakefield, 5-0, in a Middlesex League Freedom Division match played on Monday night under the lights.

Wilmington improved to 9-5 on the season which gives them enough wins to compete in the playoffs, despite four matches left.

"Qualifying for the state tournament for the second straight year means a lot," said head coach Matt Hackett. "I thought a lot about this a lot last year when we set a couple of program records. I think it means a lot for our program for attracting new freshmen, and the middle school kids now pay attention to our program and they are staring to take up tennis earlier than their freshman year.

"It's exciting to think that we had a chance to get the program's first ever banner for that gymnasium and we just missed it with Burlington getting us both times so maybe we get that next year. The sport in Wilmington is growing and we have been trying now for 15 years to grow it and it's a slow process, and we're making progress."

"These girls are just so enjoyable to work with, they really are. I tell them everyday how proud I am to work with them. They get along well, they make it fun and they know how to have fun. They also pay attention. Six of the seven starters play in the off-season, so when I think about what it means to the program, I think about what it means to the future of this program and how we're selling this game to the younger athletes and not

Was captain of football and lacrosse teams

Penttinen gets the call to the St. John's Prep Hall of Fame

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

jamiepote@hotmail.com
DANVERS - Nearly thirty years have gone by since Neil Penttinen put on St. John's Prep football and lacrosse jerseys, and he doesn't recall the scores of games, or the come from behind victories or how many tackles he made. Rather, what he remembers are things that are not part of scorebooks or headlines in newspapers.

"I played Offensive Center and Defensive Tackle in football; however I got most of my attention at center," he said. "I think playing on the offensive line alongside fellow Wilmington guy Steve Edmonds was what I remember most. We were a great group and by the end of my senior year we were blocking so well we seldom had to pass the ball."

"My high school career culminated with being nominated to play in the Massachusetts Shriner's Game. Only two other St. John's guys had been nominated during my time there. That game was incredible. Greg Catanzano -- who played at Wilmington High School at the time -- and I, drove to all the practices together and he ended up catching a touchdown pass in an overtime win for our side."

Playing in that Shriner's Game was one of the many reasons why Penttinen (Class of 1990) will be inducted into the St. John's Prep 28th annual Athletic Hall of Fame on Saturday morning. He joins 12 other athletes and a current coach with festivities starting at 8:45 am at the school's campus.

"(Getting inducted into) the St. John's Prep Hall of Fame is an incredible honor," he said. "St. John's is a special place, anyone who attended can attest to that. To have my name alongside so many other great athletes is amazing. To have my name on the list of Hall of Famers who moved on to play both college and professional sports is beyond humbling. I remember the camaraderie amongst the players the most. All of those Saturday's in the fall, coming down the stairs into Cronin Stadium at St. John's was always special."

During his time at STJ, Penttinen was a two-year starter and captain on the football team. He was named the team's Best Defensive Player as a tackle, and was named to both the Shriners and Agganis All-Star games after the completion of his senior season.

"One other thing that didn't seem like much at the time, however now is a little significant is that current Houston Texans Coach Bill O'Brien, an SJP alumni, was an assistant coach on the 1988 - my junior year-- football team before going to college. He was one of my Offensive and Defensive line coaches. Those of us on that team have the distinct honor of being the first players he ever coached. Yes, he was a good coach back then already."

Besides football, Penttinen really excelled in lacrosse. He was a four-year player and a captain during his senior year. He led the team to multiple conference championships and four trips to the state tournament. He was named to the Catholic Conference All-Conference team, as well as to the Salem News All-Star team. He was also given the St. John's Prep Unsung Hero Award during his senior year.

"Lacrosse still is a real passion for me," he said. "I still play in the Old New England Lacrosse Over 40 League and officiate high school lacrosse games in New Hampshire," he said. "Back then most kids never picked up a stick before high school. I had learned to throw and catch before coming to St. John's because my older brother, Eric, was playing two years before I got there. I was moved up to varsity as a freshman and was a starter for three years on defense."

After getting his feet wet as a freshman, it was Neil's sophomore and senior years that he will always remember fondly.

"Two things that meant the most to me were first, starting and playing alongside my brother Eric my sophomore year," he said. "I always looked up to my big brother and wanted to be like him. To be at his level meant the world to me. Second, I was the captain of a team my senior year which won our conference and made it to the third round of the Eastern Mass playoffs. That group was not the most talented of the teams I played on, however it was a hard working guys who played incredible as a team. To be one of the leaders of that group was amazing."

After he graduated from St. John's Prep in June of 1990, Penttinen went on to Fordham University where he received a BA in Economics. He played three years of football as a center, and also one year of lacrosse.

After graduating from college, Neil eventually got married to his wife Michelle, and have two children, Jacob, who just finished his freshman year at UNH and his daughter Sarah, who is 14 and will be attending Windham, High School in the fall. The family previously lived in Scottsdale, Arizona where Neil was a member of the local police department.

For the past six years he has worked as a detective with the Manchester, New Hampshire Police Department and is also member of its SWAT Team.

Penttinen said that when he looks back at all of his accomplishments as a student, as an athlete, as a police officer and of course as a father and husband, it all starts with his days growing up here in Wilmington.

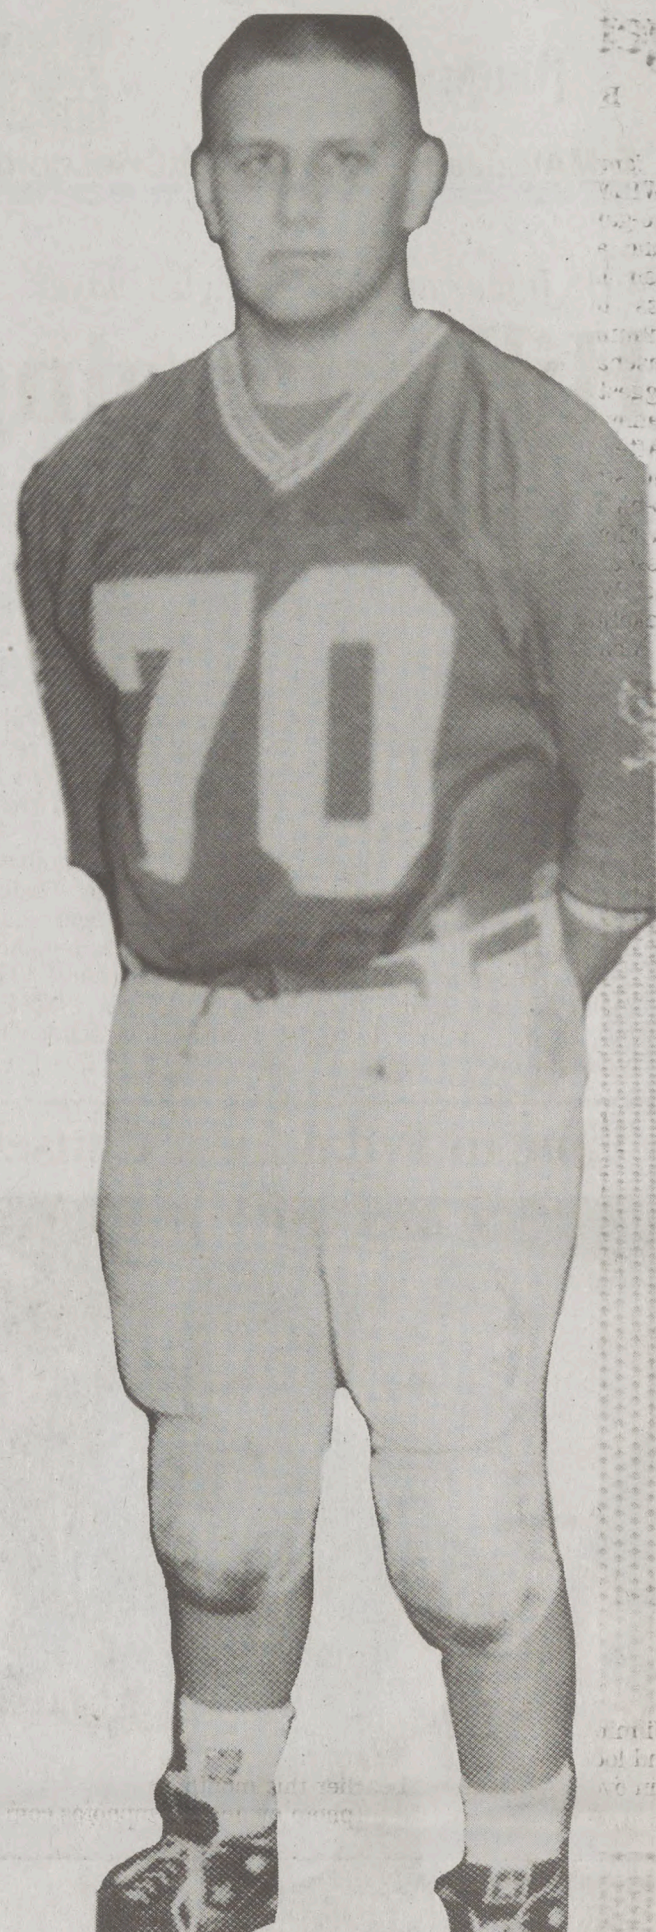

"I want to thank my parents Marge and Leo for supporting me and making sacrifices that allowed me to attend St. John's," said Neil. "I also want to thank my brother Eric, for setting a high standard and making me want to be as good as he was, which was no easy task."

He then added a few more thank-yous to so many important people.

"I would like to thank my wife Michelle for convincing me to relocate back to the Northeast after living in Arizona for ten years. I want to thank my coaches Jim O'Leary in football and Don Craig in lacrosse for pushing to always get the most out of me."

"I want to thank all the guys I played with, especially Steve Edmonds, who helped me anchor a great offensive line and fellow football co-captain Aaron Dougherty, who I went on to play football at Fordham University with for four years. I want to thank fellow lacrosse Co-Captain Peter Roy. We did everything together for four years on the lacrosse field."

"I also have to mention all the Wilmington guys who I remain close with to this day -- too many to name individually. Despite playing for different schools we always supported each other, cheered for each other, and celebrated our successes together."

And pitching great Stephen Peterson will also be inducted

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

sports@yourtowncrier.com
Stephen Peterson recently wrapped up a baseball career that most people can only dream about, having played six years of professional baseball as a pitcher in the Milwaukee Brewers system, reaching as high as AAA before calling it a career after prior to the 2017 season.

Prior to his professional career he had a terrific collegiate career, playing two seasons at Division 1 Marist College before moving on to the University of Rhode Island where in his senior season he led the team in ERA and strikeouts and was named team MVP in 2011 while also earning All-New England honors.

Those are just some snippets of what Peterson accomplished in his career after high school, but Peterson will be the first to tell you that so much of his success is because of the lessons he learned while playing at St. John's Prep, where he graduated from in 2006.

To say Peterson had a brilliant career at St. John's Prep would be an understatement. Among his list of accomplishments as an Eagle was an undefeated career record, never losing a game on either the freshman, JV or varsity teams. Peterson was 2-0 for the Eagles as a junior and 8-0 with a 1.00 ERA as a senior, helping them win the Division 1 North championship in both years and advance to the state championship game as a senior in 2006.

His dominance really emerged as a senior when he had a pair of no hitters, including one in the Division 1 state tournament, earning him Division 1 North Tournament MVP honors. He was also named to the Boston Herald All-Scholastic team as a senior and was the MVP of the 2006 Agganis All-Star game.

On Saturday morning, Peterson will be recognized for his brilliant St. John's Prep career when he is inducted into the school's Hall of Fame, an honor that Peterson is just as proud to accept as St. John's is proud to bestow upon him.

"It's very exciting. It's something I have been looking forward to for a couple of years, because a lot of guys I played with have been inducted, so for me to get inducted means so much to me," Peterson said. "To have my name up there with the guys I played with as well as so many other great players is a great honor."

Making the honor even more special for Peterson is his great love for St. John's Prep and what the school and the baseball program have meant to his career and to his life.

"I made a lot of great friends and I met a lot of great people while I was there. It helped me grow as a player and as a person," Peterson said. "It is hard for me to put into words what it meant for me to be there. I remember being in middle school and my dad taking me to see the high school playoff games and watching how they went about their business. So, when I finally got to be a part of it, it meant so much to me."

And being a part of the St. John's family played a big role in Peterson achieving his success on the baseball diamond not only in high school, but into his professional career.

"With so many great players around, you had to step up your game. I didn't make varsity until my junior year and it wasn't until my senior year that I stepped up and became the number one guy for the team," Peterson said. "Being in a successful environment like that and having the mentality of being a winner meant so much. We were always being pushed by our coaches and pushed in the classroom as to what it takes to get to the next level whether it be athletically or academically and that has helped me in so many aspects of my life."

The push and motivation from his coaches and teachers certainly helped Peterson become the player and person he is today, but if truth be told much of his motivation came from within. From the time he was playing for the St. John's

Prep freshman team until his last day in the Brewers organization, Peterson had a simple philosophy on preparing for each upcoming season.

"Being prepared for the season has always been a big thing for me," Peterson said. "I always wanted to be the most prepared player on the field at all times. I never wanted to look back and have any regrets. I wanted to be always know that I had done everything I could to be the best player I could be."

That mentality is probably why Peterson was able to accept the end of his baseball career when the Brewers released him during the spring of 2017. Despite his coming off one of the more successful seasons of his career in 2016, having gone 8-4 with a 2.77 ERA in 52 appearances, striking out 49 batters in 55 innings for the Biloxi Shuckers, the AA affiliate of the Brewers, the Brewers organization decided to move on from Peterson, who was 29 years old at the time.

While there were opportunities to continue his career, Peterson knew that the time was right to call it a career and focus on life after baseball.

"I had always said that I would play until they took the jersey away from me, so when they released me I decided it was time," Peterson said. "If an opportunity had come up with an affiliated team I may have taken it. I had a couple of offers with independent teams, but I didn't want that."

"I had given everything I had for so many years that I could feel that body wise and arm wise I was just battling through so much. When they told me I was released

Gracia and Beatrice help Baseball team get back in win column

WILMINGTON - With a two-game losing streak in hand and a week off from their last game - an ugly loss to Lexington - the Wilmington High School Baseball team drew their biggest card - an ace, pitcher Danny Gracia.

After tossing a no-hitter two starts ago, Gracia had no-hit type stuff once again on Monday afternoon as he tossed a two-hit shut out as the Wildcats knocked off Wakefield, 7-0, at the friendly Scanlon Memorial confines.

Gracia retired the first nine batters to face him before giving up back-to-back singles and a walk to load the bases with no outs in the top of the third. He escaped trouble with a 1-2-3 double play, before hitting the next batter and getting the last out on another groundball. He then retired the next nine batters to face him.

All in all, Gracia gave up two hits, walked one, hit one, struck out just three batters and got 12 infield outs. He is now 2-3 on the season, while

Softball team scuffling -- losing streak reaches four

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

WILMINGTON - If you looked at the box scores, you can easily figure out why the Wilmington High School Girls Softball team has lost four games in a row. On Monday night, it was easy - the Wildcats gave up three unearned runs in the second inning, and offensively, they didn't have an extra base hit and left nine runners on base with six in scoring position.

All of that added up to a disappointing 3-1 loss to a three-win Wakefield team.

"We have played bad defense, the small game is killing us (defensively) with the bunt coverages and we're also not hitting," said assistant coach Walter Babcock, when asked about the four game losing streak. "I think the last four games and I could be off a little, but we have given up eleven unearned runs and have scored just four total runs and we are not facing pitchers who are blowing us away. If we can't beat these types of teams, we're not going to do any type of damage in the state tournament, but we have to make it there first and that's the top priority.

"I don't know if the girls are battling nerves and walking on eggshells not wanting to make a mistake, but usually when you do that you make mistakes."

Wilmington was off in this game right from the first pitch.

Defensively, Wilmington made a number of physical and mental errors, mostly all in the three run third inning. Offensively, the 'Cats barely squared up the ball - managing nine singles and didn't walk once against a usually wild pitcher.

"The pitch selection has been bad," said Babcock.

"We had a game plan going into this game - we knew that their pitcher was always falling behind and we knew that she wanted to change that and get ahead with a first pitch strike. We told the kids that if you see a first pitch strike to jump on it and I think maybe two kids did that. Now you're down 0-2 or 1-2 and anything can happen, high, low, curve, change-up and your mind is all over the place and that's when you see the poor swings."

Trailing 3-0 after three innings, Wilmington got one run back in the fourth as Ally Moran singled and went to second on a wild pitch, and then scored on a single to center field off the bat of Adele Burton.

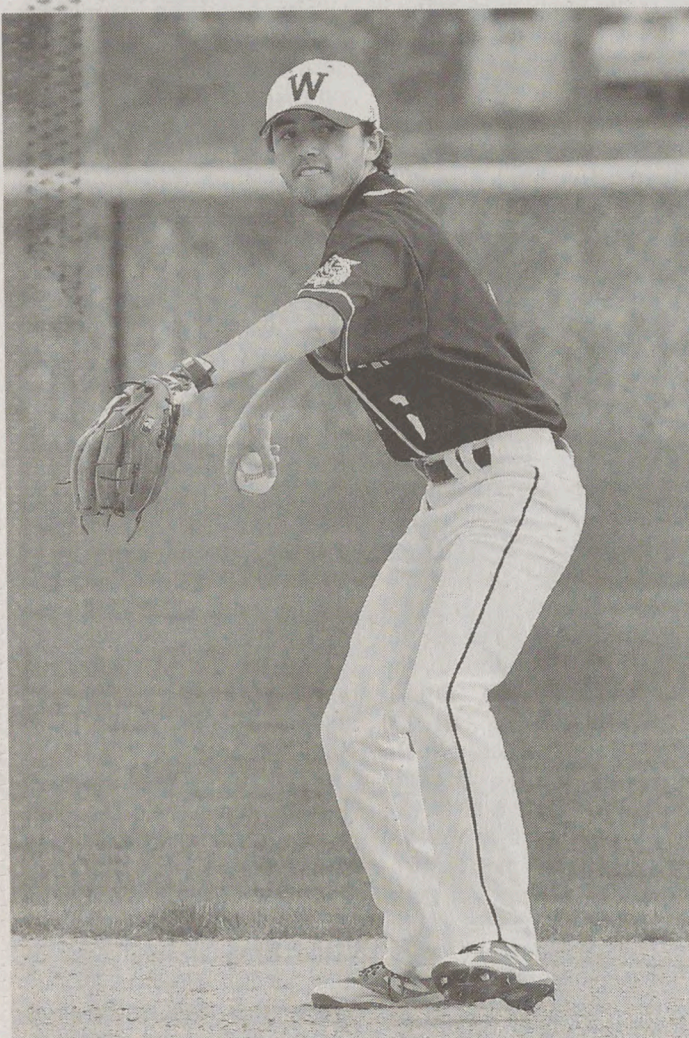

Wilmington had a runner at third with one out in the second and couldn't score, left Burton at third with one out, then runners at the corners and two outs in the fifth, had first and second in the sixth and also a runner at third with one out in the seventh and couldn't score any of those times.

"We're not getting the timely hit either," said Babcock. "Whenever Wakefield made a mistake, we did not capitalize on it. We're not producing and we're not making good contact."

Earlier in the week, the 'Cats lost to Burlington 6-1, and then to Melrose, 1-0, despite 11 strikeouts by Moran on the mound. Again, Wilmington made three errors in one inning leading to the one unearned run.

With a 7-6 overall record, the 'Cats have to win three of their last seven games to get into the state tournament. The last seven games are all winnable games including Stoneham, Lowell Catholic, Winchester, Somerville, Melrose, Wakefield and Essex Tech.

Wildcats close out dual meet season with convincing win over Watertown

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

jamiepote@hotmail.com
WILMINGTON - When you sweep four events - triple jump, discus, long jump and shot put - to give you 36 points, you can all but cruise the rest of the way.

That's what happened last Wednesday as the Wilmington High School Boys Outdoor Track-and-Field team closed out their dual meet season with a convincing 93-43 win over Watertown.

The 'Cats finished at 3-2, and now have the post-season meets upcoming starting with Monday's Middlesex League Championship Meet.

"Watertown was a solid win all-around and a total team win," said head coach Mike Kinney. "We had a lot of strong performances to close out the dual meet season. We finished 3-2 and I think that's pretty good considering Burlington and Wakefield are two of the top teams in our entire league."

"I thought we had a strong dual meet season and we have a strong team with a lot of underclassmen, so we are looking to come back big next year."

Starting with the sweeps, it was Sean Braz (37-2), Sam Juergens (26-2.25) and Max Duong (35-5.25) in the triple jump; Tyler Thomas (121-5), Dean Nally (109-5) and James Sheehan (112-10) in the discus; Mike Fothergill (18-6), Colin Rooney (17-7.25) and Duong (17-5.50) in the long jump; and Tyler Thomas (40-10), Sheehan (39-0) and Nally (38-00) in the shot put.

"Tyler Thomas had a personal best throw in the discus, Dean Nally is coming along huge especially in his first year in track and Mike Fothergill is also coming along great, especially in the long jump, relays and the sprints," said Kinney.

Braz was also first in the 400 with a time of 52.4 seconds.

"Sean ran his best race of the season in the 400. He is undefeated in the triple jump. He's our leading scorer this year. He's coming along nicely and should do well at the league meet," said Kinney.

Other first places came from Owen Surrette in the mile (4:46) and Ben Packer in the two-mile (10:31.7) as well as both relay teams. The 4x100 team consisted of Frankie Melanson, Tom Hogan, Bruce Veliz and Fothergill, who had a combined time of 46.6 seconds. The 4x400 team was Jake Danieli, Braz, Brian Elder and Duong and they came in at 3:43.2.

Taking second places included Sam Vince in the 400-meter hurdles (63.8), Greg Adamek in the mile (4:50.9), John Kenney in the javelin (132-9), 100 (11.4) and 200 (22.7), Brian Elder in the 800 (2:05.6) and Rooney in the 110-meter hurdles (17.1) and high jump (5-2) and

"Rooney is Mr. Versatile, he's going to be good at the multi-events at the end of the season like the pentathlon and decathlon. He'll do that at the state meet," said Kinney.

Rounding out the scoring with third places included Matt Thomas in the 400-meter hurdles (65.3) and 110-meter hurdles (17.2), Nolan Kane in the javelin (122-10), Fothergill in the 100 (11.7), Kevin Elder in the 800 (2:12.9), Hogan in the 200 (24.2), Joe Lydon in the two-mile (11:39) and AJ Curdo in the high jump (5-2).

On Saturday, Wilmington participated in the annual Andover Booster's Meet. The highlight of the meet came from Surrette, who finished second in the Freshmen/Sophomore mile race with a time of 4:44.44.

"Owen is a great kid, hard-worker and he's going to be doing some big things for this program. I think he will break the school record in the mile of 4:29, set by Chris Murray. Owen ran 4:44 the other day," said Kinney.

A handful of athletes competed in multiple events. Fothergill was 14th in the 200 (24.28) and 27th in the long jump (18-01.50); Braz was 10th in the triple jump (39-08.25) and 20th in the 400 (55.50); Vince was 22nd in the 400-meter hurdles (1:03.61) and 30th in the 110-meter hurdles (18.87); Rooney was 23rd in the long jump (18-06) and 37th in the 110-meter hurdles (20.22); Tyler Thomas was 11th in the discus (110-11) and 22nd in the shot put (39-03) and Nally was 17th in the discus (104-09) and 31st in the shot put (39-03).

Also competing in the running events included: Veliz (40th, 13:05) and Ben DeSantis (42nd, 13:20) in the 100; Hogan (22nd, 24.68) in the 200; Duong (19th, 55.39) in the 400, Brian (16th, 2:06.33) and Kevin Elder (32nd, 2:09.81) in the 800; Lydon (33rd, 5:00.38) and Andrew Dawson (36th, 5:28.22) in the mile; Packer (15th, 10:21.40) and Tom Goodwin (27th, 11:13.68) in the two-mile; Matt Thomas (34th, 19.13) in the 110-meter hurdles and Curdo (28th, 1:05.83) in the 400-meter hurdles.

The 4x200 relay team was 8th at 1:42.27 and the 4x100 team was 15th at 47.93.

In the field events, Juergens was 24th in the triple jump at 37-06.00 and Surrette (109-11) and Jake Arsenault (109-03) finished 35th and 36th in the javelin.

Five others competed in the freshmen/sophomore races including Richard Stuart (31st, 13:12) and Matt Chisholm (34th, 13:35) in the 100, Danieli (12th, 55.95) and Sean Riley (24th, 57.88) in the 400 and Nolan Kennedy (34th, 5:13.43) in the mile.

Girls Track team pulls out a win in a wild meet

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

jamiepote@hotmail.com
WILMINGTON - Last Wednesday afternoon, the Wilmington High School Girls Outdoor Track-and-Field team completed its dual meet season with a wild 69-67 victory over Watertown in a Middlesex League Freedom Division Meet held at the Frank Kelley Track.

With two events left, the triple jump and 4x400 relay, both teams needed eight points to come away with the win.

"(Watertown) managed to win the relay by a small margin, which meant we needed to grab first and second in the triple jump," explained head coach Brian Schell. "Fortunately for us, their anchor leg of the relay race was too tired competing in the triple jump and she fouled on her last attempt. If she hadn't, Watertown would have won."

That foul allowed Alexcia Luna to finish first and Lailoo Perriello to take second, giving Wilmington the necessary eight points (compared to six for Watertown), and the two-point win to close out the regular season with a 2-3 record.

"Coming into the meet we knew we had a good chance of winning but it was going to be close," said Schell. "We tied them last year and the team did not want that again this year. I let the team know that every event would come down to inches and seconds and most likely come down to the 4x400 relay. Every event went back and forth with their jumps matching our throws and their distance events matching our sprints."

Wilmington won eight events including Luna in the 100-meter hurdles (17.4), the 200 (26.5) and the triple jump (30-6) to account for 15 of the team's points. Amie Russell won both the shot put (30-9) and the discus (78-11) to register 10 points. Other first places came from Evy Miller-Nuzzo in the 400-meter hurdles (1:13.4), Emma Garrity in the 400 (62.0) and Jade Brennan in the javelin (76-8).

Perriello notched two big second place finishes, obviously in the triple jump with a mark of 28-9, but also in the 800-meters finishing at 2:42.

"Lailoo dropped down to the 800 meters having ran the mile all season and got a big second place finish," said Schell. "Her splits were consistent all race and having stepped up in this event helped spread more points around that came up huge. Also, it was her first time in the triple jump since doing it last year and she came up big. She had no idea that the meet came down to the triple jump once the relay finished prior to her last attempt. Her jump proved to be the difference in the score and the team celebrated the only way they knew how, hoisting her in the air."

Other second places were earned by Hannah LaVita in the high jump (4-8), Miller-Nuzzo in the long jump (13-10), Miriam Nelson in the discus (77-3) and Gabby Villalta in the javelin (64-2).

Picking up the very important third places included Joanne Arulraj in the 400-meter hurdles (1:20.9), Gianna Misuraca in the mile (6:13), Kiki Barnum in the 100-meter hurdles (19.9), Anna Rideout in the 100 (13.9), Julia McLaughlin in the 400 (65.9), Maggie Bourgeois in the 800 (2:43), Ashley LaMonica in the 200 (29.5), Villalta in the two-mile (17:15), Miller-Nuzzo in the high jump (4-6), Katie McLaughlin in the long jump (13-6.50) and Brennan in the discus (61-9).

Wilmington will now compete in the Middlesex League Championship Meet on Monday at Regis College in Weston.

ANDOVER BOOSTERS

On Saturday, Wilmington competed in the annual Andover Boosters Meet.

There were several strong performances, including Emma Garrity, who was sixth in the 800 coming in at 2:22.98.

"Position was key this race with a pact heat of roughly fifteen girls," said Schell. "Emma had to move out to almost lane three which ultimately slowed the time down and is something to work on in the coming weeks. Other than that she had a solid race and looked strong the hole time."

Gianna Misuraca continues to improve running, a 5:59.23 time to take 24th in the freshmen/sophomore mile.

"She has been strong, the last three meets and consistent overall in her times," said Schell. "She finally managed to break the 6:00 barrier and even lead for almost three-fourths of the race. Her splits every meet have also been consistent and she was able to finish stronger than usual. Her goal all season was to break that barrier and I'm happy she finally was able to."

Also in the running events included: Evelyn Miller-Nuzzo in the 400-meter hurdles (15th, 1:13.97), Alexcia Luna in the 400 (15th, 1:02.95), Julia McLaughlin in the 400 (26th, 1:07.35), Ashley Lamonica in the 200 (27th, 31.20), Lailoo Perriello in the 800 (2:43.37), while the 4x200 relay team was 10th at 2:04.44 and the 4x100 team was 16th at 58.42.

In the field events, Hannah LaVita was 10th in the high jump clearing 4-8, while Amie Russell was 15th in the shot put (29-07.50) and 23rd in the discus (73-04). Also, Jade Brennan was 24th in the javelin (66-03), Miller-Nuzzo was 26th in the high jump (4-6) and Miriam Nelson was 32nd in the shot put (61-08).

Three others competed in the freshmen/sophomores races including Maggie Bourgeois (14th, 1:07.41) and Katie McLaughlin (20th, 1:09.08) in the 400, and Anna Rideout with a time of 14.55 in the 100.

Gracia and Beatrice help 'Cats get back into win column sporting an ERA right around 1.00.

"Danny pitched great and I think he had just three strikeouts and just a couple of walks," said head coach Aldo Caira. "He was right there but they were also swinging the bats. They were real aggressive and they wanted to swing. He was around the plate the whole game. Danny pitched a great game."

Gracia was able to relax a bit when his teammates put four runs on the board in the bottom of the first. Chris Grecco and Carl Beatrice knocked in runs on singles, while Graham Smith and Grecco scored on wild pitches.

Wilmington then managed just one base hit over the next three innings.

"They had a week off, were well-rested and swung the bats," said Caira. "We had a little bit of a lull in those middle innings. They were trying to pull everything, so we had them move up a little more in the batter's box because their pitcher wasn't as quick as we have seen and we were just popping everything up. They adjusted and had that nice three run inning in the end."

In the bottom of the fifth, the 'Cats scored three more runs on RBI singles by Matt Rideout and Beatrice, as well as a sacrifice fly by Grecco.

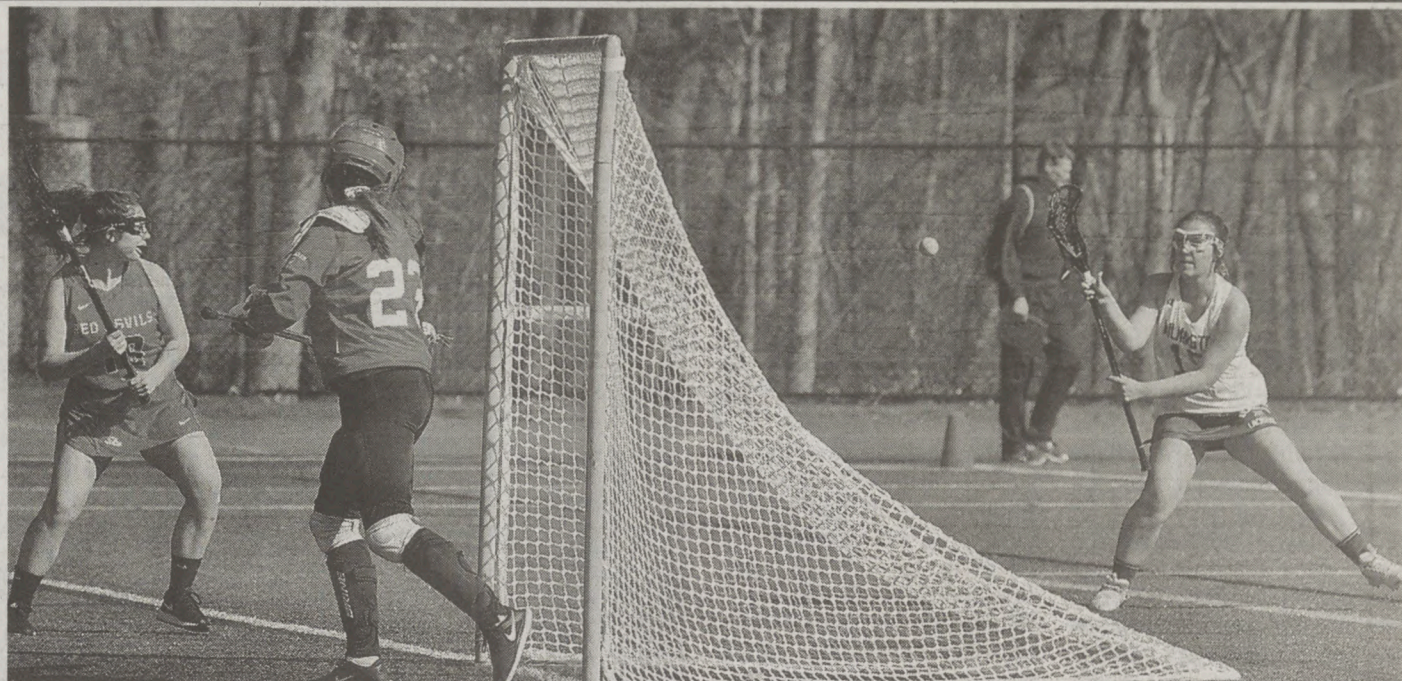

Beatrice was the star at the plate as he went 3-for-3 with 2 RBIs.

"Beatrice had a great game. He was 3-for-3, had a couple of runs batted in, made a couple of nice plays at third base," said Caira before being asked about the difference of Beatrice's play from last year to this year. "Last year he didn't play every game like he is this year. I think at the plate this year he is just more confident. He's getting more at bats, he's seeing the ball and he's driving it."

"Last year there was some inconsistency in his play so he could really never get hot, but he's getting more playing time this year and is keeping up with it."

Rideout had two hits and scored two runs, Smith scored twice and Grecco had two RBI.

Girls gets edged out by Wakefield; still winless

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

sports@yourtowncrier.com
WILMINGTON -- The Wilmington High Girls

Lacrosse team came ever so close to picking up their first win of the season this past week, battling to the end in two of their three games, losing one contest to Wakefield last Thursday by a score of 10-9 in their most competitive game of the season as well as another well played game to Revere on Monday. Prior to that, the Wildcats had suffered a 15-4 loss to a powerful Lexington team last Wednesday.

With the 0-3 week, the Wildcats are now 0-10 on the season, having come up just short of their first victory on a few occasions, now having lost two games by one goal and another by just two.

Despite the loss to Wakefield last Thursday, the Wildcats got some outstanding efforts, led by senior captain Lauren D'Angelo's three goals, along with one goal each from Mia O'Connell, Sam Burke, Cass Collins and Ashlyn Flynn. Meg Santry made 12 saves in net for the Wildcats, who had a chance to tie in the closing minutes but could not get the equalizer.

"This was yet another a very close game for us. It was a very intense game to say the least," Wilmington coach Ashley Kelley said. "Wakefield ended up coming out with the win in the end when we couldn't execute our play on our last possession. It was a hard fought game overall and a great effort by everyone."

For a half at least, Monday's game against Revere looked like it would be another one that would come down to the last possession, but Revere pulled away in the second half for a 16-8 victory despite two goals each from Sam Burke and Olivia Carpenito, as well as single tallies from senior Danielle Silva, Lauren D'Angelo, Bella LaMothe and Jocelyn Palmer.

"This was another close game in the first half but unfortunately they pulled away and we lost confidence in the second half," Kelley said. "We are really trying to work on who wants it more in these situations and it's hard to lose to a team we give great competition to. We still have a lot to work on. We played a great first half but fell short in the second."

In their first game of the week, last Wednesday, the Wildcats ran into a Lexington team that is 12-2 on the season, and despite their best efforts, fell by a score of 14-4.

LaMothe led the way on offense with two goals for the Wildcats, while Carpenito and Silva had one goal each. Shannon Murphy had five saves in net for the Wildcats.

Despite the loss, Kelley was please with the way her team played against such a talented opponent.

"(Lexington) is a great team to play against. They have a high level of skill and always give us a good game," Kelley said. "We actually played great and it was a great lacrosse game for the first 13 minutes of the game. It was very close, but once they started to pull away with the goals we got thrown off track, and that has been our biggest challenge this year, not giving up even when we're down."

The Wildcats will be back in action on Friday with a road game against Watertown, followed two more road contests, against Lowell on Saturday and Revere next Tuesday.

WILMINGTON - Regardless of the sport, whenever Tewksbury and Wilmington square off against each other, you can be sure that there will be plenty of fireworks, with both arch rivals battling each other to the very end.

That was certainly the case once again on Monday afternoon when the two schools squared off in a hard fought, tense Boys Lacrosse matchup that was not decided until the game's final minutes, with Wilmington coming out on top 7-6 when Connor Benoit scored the game winning goal with four minutes left in the game.

Benoit's goal came just moments after Tewksbury had tied the game at 6-6 with just over five minutes left on a goal by senior Braden Hiltz, his third of the game.

With the win, the Wildcats snapped a two game losing streak and improved to 4-7 on the season, while the Redmen remained winless on the season, dropping to 0-13 on the campaign.

The teams traded scores throughout the game, with Wilmington holding leads of 3-2, 4-3, 5-4 and finally 6-5, with the Redmen tying the game each time, right up until the final game winning goal, when the Redmen were unable to respond.

"We had our chances after they got the seventh goal, but we just couldn't put one in the back of the net," Tewksbury coach Keith Stone said. "It was a good game, back and forth all the way through, but they made one more play than we did. The kids fought hard for four quarter trying to get their first win of the season, but they just couldn't get it."

Of course, the Wildcats were a big reason why the Redmen were unable to secure that elusive win, led to victory not only by Benoit's big goal, but also multiple tallies from junior captain Andrew Sullivan and senior captain Bobby Lord, along with one goal from senior Michael Ducharme.

"It was back-and-forth all the way through," Wilmington coach Fran Peters said. "I felt like we were the better team, but their goalie (Ryan Day) was very good and made a lot of good saves. We knew he was going to be good because the Andover coach had told us how good he was, and he lived up to it. He made some point blank saves."

Stone agreed with Peters' assessment of his sophomore keeper, noting that Day's 15-save performance was a continuation of what has been a tremendous season to this point despite the Redmen's record.

"He was very good today," Stone said. "He's been a very solid goalie and with him being just a sophomore he has continued to improve all season. He has a very bright future ahead of him."

Peters was also pleased with the performance of his goalie, junior Ryan Murphy, who has been a big part of the Wildcats recent success, which has seen them inch closer to the .500 mark after a 1-5 start to the season. Murphy may not have played his best game of his stellar season, but when his team needed him most, stepped up.

"Ryan played well enough to win," Peters said. "It was not one of his better games, because he has been so good for us, but he made the saves at the end when we needed him to. He came up big when we needed him."

Along with Hiltz's trick, other goal scorers for the Redmen were freshman Kyle Darrigo with two and senior Shane Darrigo with one, while Hiltz, Derek Schumaker and Brandon Winn each had an assist. The Redmen will now prepare to take on Billerica in a road game on Friday, followed by a home game against Chelmsford on Monday.

"The kids are working hard, nobody is giving up, despite our record," Stone said. "Just like today, the kids are battling for four quarters, trying to get that first win. I thought we played well today, so it would have been nice to come away with the win, but we weren't able to do it. It certainly wasn't due to lack of effort."

Wilmington's Tyler Roberts knocks down Tewksbury's Jackson DeRoche during Monday's contest held at WHS. The Wildcats came away with a 6-5 victory.

Wilmington meanwhile will prepare for a matchup with Watertown on Friday and Lowell on Sunday, before hosting Revere next Tuesday and Woburn next Wednesday. Peters feels like his team can win each of these games and move into contention for the state tournament.

"All of our games are winnable at this point," Peters said. "I feel like we are a better team than Watertown, and even though Lowell will be a very tough game, I feel like we can win, and the same goes for Woburn on Wednesday. I know they are good, but I feel like we can beat them."

Wilmington High's Ryan Murphy makes a save to help the Wildcats defeat Tewksbury, 6-5, in a boys lacrosse game played on Monday.

Under 12-3 Boys take on Wakefield

The Wilmington Boys 12-3 youth travel soccer team got on the board early when Jack Bourque deflected a punt by the Wakefield goalie back into their zone and Jack 'Marcelo' Murphy stole the ball from the defender and put it into the lower left corner of the net. A few minutes later, Lukas Poirier stole the ball from another defender and found the same corner of the frame to put the Wildcats ahead 2-0.

The scoring continued when Marcelo teed up a shot for Jackson McDonald that found the back of the net. With Jackson's goal, every member of the team has notched a goal since the team began playing together in the fall. Ryan Quamme followed up with a goal on a shot about 30 yards out that found its way through the Wakefield defense and beat the keeper. Mick Keogan intercepted a Wakefield corner kick and broke the length of the field to round out the first half scoring for the Wildcats.

Both teams played to a stalemate to start the second half. It wasn't until late in the game that Wilmington got back on the board. Lincoln Levesque stole the ball just over half field and broke to the net and beat the goalie. Tyler Florencio then found a breaking Mick in stride with a punt that led to Mick's second goal of the day. Lincoln also picked up a brace when he just beat Kaleb Molina to a Mick rebound that he blasted home as time expired.

The defensive trio of Layne Coutu, Oliver Ferrer and Zack Guyette combined to limit Wakefield's chances. Despite a strong push by the Warriors near the end of the game, Tyler, Mick and Jackson were able to combine in goal to complete the shutout.

Royals and Astros meet up in a Single-A Little League game

Single A

Royals vs Astros

The Royals' Evan McLean made his pitching debut throwing one inning and striking out two players. Ryan Fitzgerald caught two innings and capped off the final Inning of the game with a great hit to right field! Jackson Gardner hit a ground ball to the right side of the infield that he was able to beat out after a good play by the Astros.

The Astros were led by a strong catching debut by Sam Beaudoin. He handled first time pitchers Masen Voner and Dante Capozzi. Both had strong pitching performances and had no problem finding the strike zone.

The Astros offense got going by the big hitting Joe Mytych. Nicholas Maninos had a big two out two strike bases loaded hit to drive in a key run. Game balls were awarded to Sam Beaudoin and Masen Voner for their sportsmanship and play.

Astros vs Cardinals

The Astros came out swinging in a Single A game vs the Cardinals. Jake Gryglik and Jackson Cipolle led the game off with two big hits to get the Astros offense going. They set the pace for a strong offensive performance by the Astros.

On the defensive side, CJ Morad made his season debut behind the plate and did a fine job defensively. Dylan Costantiello pitched the final inning handling the big bats of the Cardinals by striking out the side to end the game.

The Cardinals looked sharp throughout the game, getting a great pitching performance by Patrick Moriarty and gold-glove caliber defense from Spencer Walker, Zach Maiella, and Sean Theodos. The Cardinals offensive charge was led by leadoff hitter Josh Lopez, who was followed by a series of screeching hits and great at bats from Brendan Cohen, Griffin Crowe, Tommy MacGilvary, and Matthew Norton. Meanwhile the defense was anchored by great defense behind the dish from Justice Eutsay, Max Glazer, and Tommy Demers.

AAA

Astros vs Pirates

The Astros got off to a fast start as Evan Cummings lead off the game with a single. Ethan Afthim kept up his hot hitting by singling him in and then Tim Watson singled in Afthim. John Roofe also singled and Joe Gronemeyer singled and doubled.

Others such as Jake Cronin, Kevin Pruslin, Will Poyant and Luke Kitanov reached base as well. Pruslin and Roofe scored twice while Cronin and Poyant came across once each. Poyant was dominant on the mound striking out nine in three innings.

Watson struck out five in two innings and Joe Cavanaugh added one in his inning. Joe Fennelly and Kitanov did their usual outstanding job behind the plate. Ronnan Scaffidi, Gronemeyer, Cavanaugh, Pruslin, and Afthim were among those making key plays in the field.

Everyone of those plays were needed as the Pirates came storming back in the last inning. Christopher Smith and Ronnie Jordan pitched well in their first stints. Joey Fallis and Maxwell Bagtaz kept the Pirates in the game early with some great fielding and everyone chipped in offensively to almost complete the come back from six runs down.

Ask a Physical Therapist to 'Screen' your movements

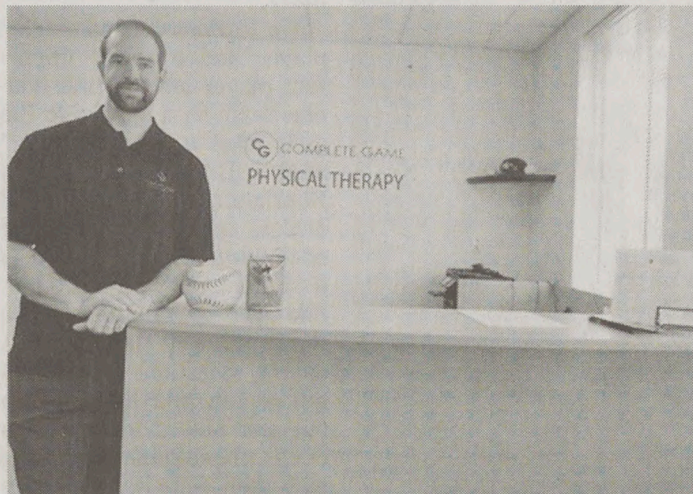

By GREG CROSSMAN
Guest Columnist

This Spring Let's talk about the last time you—or someone close to you—interviewed for a new job. Chances are that the first step was a phone screen with your potential employer, and when you passed that portion of the process with flying colors, you were then invited for an in-person interview.

At that stage, the employer probably asked you to answer a series of questions and to demonstrate your skills through a test or two. The process is set up in a way that narrows down the options until the most suitable candidate is found. Makes sense, right?

Just as job recruiters screen applicants to find the best fit for an open position, your PT will ask you to perform a series of exercises so that she can observe and understand your body mechanics to uncover any issues or limitations.

Used in combination with a full evaluation and assessment, these so-called movement screens are just one tool in identifying the most appropriate treatment or prevention program for you. But unlike that test you may have taken during a job interview, the screen is not testing your skills or abilities, it's simply a way of identifying how your body functions during a variety of movements.

Now that spring is in full swing, it's the perfect time of year to make an appointment with your physical therapist for a movement screen. The warmer weather means more time spent outdoors participating in sports and other recreational activities that may be physically demanding.

A PT checkup that includes a movement screen will ensure that you're physically able to engage in popular spring and summer adventures, whether it's exploring in the woods, tending to your garden, or swimming at your family's lake house.

Physical therapists perform movement screens for a variety of reasons, including:

- To identify areas of strength and weakness;
- To uncover issues or rule them out;
- To determine readiness to begin a safe exercise program;
- To improve sport performance (for both novice and elite athletes).

A movement screen is something that you can have done whether you have a nagging injury or are simply ready to kickstart your activity level after a long hiatus. Gaining an understanding of how your body performs during basic exercises such as squats and lunges helps your PT ensure that you can safely jump on a bike or into a pool this summer. And just like an employer screens candidates to identify the one individual who is likely to thrive on the job for many years to come, a movement screen can help you develop a lasting and fulfilling relationship with the activities you enjoy most.

screen for yourself or someone you know contact Greg at Complete Game Physical Therapy 978-710-7204 or mail at gcrossman@completegamept.com.

just fell in love with the sport," said Hill, who has a younger brother Conner, who plays golf and hockey as a freshman at Arlington Catholic. "I started playing competitively when I was around ten years old, or maybe a little bit younger. I was playing on a Northshore Team from Woburn when I was really young. I've been taking lessons year round, I do tournaments for the USTA and I play on the JTT (Junior Team Tennis), which is up in Nashua, New Hampshire.

"It's just something about (the sport). It keeps me active, it keeps me busy, it's a good distraction from other life things and it's just a good outlet for everything. I really want to stick with it and play it the rest of my life."

Hill plays year-round and takes private lessons so to say that she is committed to the sport would be an understatement. She is already looking at various out-of-state colleges, hoping to play at the Division 2 level.

"She works hard in the off-season," said Hackett. "She works all 12 months. She takes private lessons and she's really committed and dedicated to the sport. She's as committed and as hard working of an athlete, as I have ever coached. After we left the (state individual) tournament on Saturday, Emily and her mother went to watch a tournament where they can chat with a college coach. This is how dedicated she is - this is how much it means to her."

The 2015 Wildcat tennis team finished with a 1-16 record. The following year, a well-known freshman entered the scene.

"Emily came into the program with the expectation that she was going to be a really strong player," said Hackett. "And she definitely has lived up to that expectation since day one. She had the tall task of challenging to play first singles as a freshman and that can be both exciting and terrifying for a 14-year-old girl. She handled it very well but keep it mind she beat out a friend and two seniors for that position so there was definitely an adjustment period."

"Having said that, she finished with six wins as a freshman playing first singles, last year she had eight and this year she is 11-3. She has battled really hard since that freshman year and she has learned a lot about herself. The reality is when you are playing first singles in tennis, you don't have a day off. Every program, even bad programs, will have a decent player on their team, so she never gets a day off."

The 2016 team finished with a 4-12 record, with Hill finishing 6-10 from the No. 1 spot - in the second toughest league in the state, behind the Dual County League.

Last year as a sophomore, she returned as the No. 1 player and compiled a record of 8-9 which included a win in the state individual tournament, as well as leading the team to its best season in program history.

"Today she is sporting an 11-3 record, meaning she has compiled 25 wins in three-plus seasons."

"I think her second year she got a little bit more comfortable, but this is the year that she has really taken off," said Hackett. "She has taken that big leap forward in terms of her comfort level and in terms of being in control of points. To have ten wins as a junior number one player in this league is really strong."

"Typically I look at every first singles player and I said if you come out with a .500 record, I am proud of you, that's incredible. To be

11-3 is crazy. She beat Lexington, she beat Belmont's top player and those are two huge wins. She lost to Burlington twice, and that girl is ranked fourth in our section at the state individual tournament, and then her third loss came against Arlington."

Being able to improve her win total at WHS from six to eight to now eleven wins, certainly didn't happen overnight. Outside of her high school team, Hill has played competitive tennis for about seven years now, including winning a handful of USTA Tournaments, while she currently is ranked 60th in the section and has a State Ranking of 21, according to the USTANE website.

On the court, Hill has strong skills, a very powerful serve, and her strokes whether forehand or backhand are powerful and consistent. She was asked about the different aspects of her game, starting with her serve.

"The toughest part is getting the toss right. If you don't have a consistent toss, you are going to struggle. Everything starts with the toss and it needs to be consistent. I like focusing on where to hit and how much spin I have on it. I divide it into three sections, I can hit a wide serve, a deep serve or I can hit it right at the body. With the spin, I can loop it out further in the court."

One thing that both Hill and Hackett agree on is that the player has drastically improved her knowledge of the game, in particular studying her opponents during a match.

"I like to think of my game as more improvising," she said. "I'll usually take the situation that I'm in and I'll go from there. It always works for me. Other players have set game plans and it doesn't go accordingly to what they want, it falls apart and that's something I have picked up on with some of the people I played against."

She also credited Hackett saying, "He's helped me with my mental game a lot. Sometimes I'll get mad and he will be like 'hey, everything is fine'. He's an awesome coach. He is really laid back and chilled. I have had a bunch of different coaches and each of them have their own style and I find his style is really good, too."

Hackett said her overall knowledge and understanding key moments in matches are part of Hill's maturity and gaining more match experience, but it's much more than that.

"It's understanding how to play within a point," he said. "I think sometimes when you are young, and you see a girl hitting the ball 90 miles per hour at you, you try to whale the ball back and whale the ball back, and you try to do one shot at a time. But when you get into the game and you have the wherewithal of what's going on, you think two and three shots ahead. I think Emily has done a much better job practicing that and playing that way."

And playing like a dominating No. 1 singles player Wilmington hasn't seen in over three decades.

having such a hard time trying to attract talent. It's been a lot of fun and certainly I'm proud to be a part of it and I'm proud of them."

Last year Wilmington finished the regular season at 11-7 and went 1-1 in the playoffs, first beating North Andover, 3-2, before losing to a very talented Wayland team, 5-0, in the second round. That closed out the magical season with a 12-8 record, the 12 wins believed to be the most in program history, while the win over NA believed to be the only post-season win in program history.

The Wildcats lost two of their starting seven players from last year's team, and are still firing on all cylinders this year with the 9-5 mark.

"We lost our second singles player and a really important player off our first doubles team so it speaks to the girls who have stepped in," said Hackett.

"Lia Kourkoutas is a really good athlete and she just puts her nose down and grinds. She is a student of the game, too. She wants to learn, she wants to get better, she's asking questions about the game. Lia and her Dad go out and play a lot and he's been phenomenal working with her. She has filled in very nicely at second singles."

"Carolyn Roney, who was at first doubles last year, is killing it at third singles, absolutely killing it. Record wise, points wise and sets wise, she's the most dominant player on our team right now. We had a log jam at second doubles last year and we have been able to fill that this year."

"It's been a nice run so far. I think we have caught lightning in a bottle and we are just running with it. We beat the teams that we're supposed to beat and try to be as competitive as we can with the teams that we're not supposed to beat. We lost two close matches to Lexington and Belmont, both 3-2 and we have never beat Lexington. Every other match has been 5-0."

In the win over Wakefield, Wilmington won all five matches in straight sets including Emily Hill over Haley Tanner, 6-3 and 6-2, Lia Kourkoutas over Olivia Dziadeyk, 6-2 and 6-0, Carolyn Roney over Laura McGovern, 6-0 and 6-2, and then both doubles teams won with Jessica D'Arco and Krista Brown winning 6-3 and 6-2, and Jill Roche and Lauren Field coming out on top at 7-5 and 6-0.

Earlier in the week, the Wildcats had two tough losses to Belmont, 3-2 and then to Burlington, which currently has a 13-1 record. Hill and Roney came away with the wins vs Belmont. Hill defeated Caroline Dustin, 6-3 and 6-2 and Roney made quick work of Simona Casale, 6-1 and 6-2.

Roney was the lone winner against Burlington, beating Liz Gillespie 7-6 (8-6 tiebreak) and 6-4.

On Saturday, Hill and Kourkoutas participated in the state individual tournament held at Lexington High School. Hill received a first round bye, before falling to Jane Stillwell of Hopkinton by scores of 7-5 and 6-1.

"Emily had a bye and she earned that, and she ended up going up against a tough opponent from Hopkinton. It's an opponent that Emily could have definitely beat and I know she was disappointed. What I think ruined her momentum was after day one (on Saturday), they stopped the match because of rain when Emily was up 5-4 in the first set. We walked off the court and had to come back the next day and there things just went downhill fast."

"I feel strongly that if the match was completed on the first day where she was on a pretty good tear, she would have won."

Kourkoutas lost her match to a Westford Academy player in straight 6-1 sets.

Wilmington has four matches left, first with Stoneham on Wednesday with results not known as of presstime, and then they will host Watertown on Friday, travel to Stoneham on Monday, and host a talented Winchester team next Wednesday.

Pan Mass Challenge Kids Bike Ride, Sunday

more abstract for him as he was riding for people he'd heard about, but since then it's been more personal as people he personally knows have had to deal with cancer."

The event is organized once again by Sue Hendee, the long time Wilmington High School girls' soccer coach and Shawsheen School teacher. She has lost a number of loved ones to cancer, and like everyone else, hopes there is a cure found for this deadly disease, obviously sooner than later.

"This year will be our 13th ride and we have raised over $180,000 so far," she said. "One hundred percent of the money that is raised goes to the Pan Mass Challenge to support the Dana Farber Cancer Institute and Jimmy Fund. Last year, 35 towns in New England sponsored Kids Rides and raised $850,000. This year the goal is to raise $920,000 from 38 towns participating."

Kevin Pruslin, a fourth grader at the North Intermediate School, certainly has his own hands in that $180,000. Over the last three years he has raised, $886 in 2016, $1,245 in '17 and already this year he has raised $1,690, which is incredible for a 10-year-old. His fundraising pages can be located at: <http://profile.kids.pmc.org/wilmington/PK0169>.

"Kevin is especially proud of being able to actively do something to help the people he knows who have had cancer and the many others who have it as well," said his Dad.

Sunday's event is a one mile route for kids from Kindergarten through sixth grade, while there is also a 'Tikes on Trikes' obstacle course for pre-schoolers, held on the Boutwell School Tennis courts. The one mile route begins at the Boutwell School, goes down Carter Lane, behind the West Intermediate, back down Carter Lane and around the Boutwell. Carter Lane is closed for the duration of the event from 9-11am.

On hand supplying their usual incredible support, includes the Wilmington Police, Wilmington Kiwanis (who cook up hot dogs for all of the riders), and the Wilmington Public Schools including custodial staff, teachers, students, and administrators, all of whom make the ride run smoothly.

The event will take place rain or shine and we will have a pre-registration day on Saturday from 9-11am at the Boutwell School. Registration is $15 and includes an event t-shirt and water bottle, as well as free raffles, refreshments, face painting, and tunes from our awesome DJ Carl Toto.

In addition to the $15 registration, riders must raise a minimum of $30, which will go directly to help fight cancer. People can register online at: <http://www.kids-pmc.org/wilmington.aspx>, on Saturday May 19th from 9-11am or on the day of the ride, Sunday May 20th at the Boutwell School by 9:00am.

Shawsheen Tech Sports Round-Up

Rams clinch third straight CAC League Title

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

sports@yourtowncrier.com

There are big weeks for a team and then of course there are really big weeks. It would be safe to say that this past week for the Shawsheen Tech Girls Lacrosse team would fall into the really big week category, as not only did the Lady Rams clinch a spot in the state tournament with their 17-3 win over Salem on Saturday, but they also clinched their third consecutive CAC title with a 14-10 win over Mystic Valley last Wednesday.

With their 2-0 week, the Lady Rams improved 10-3 overall on the season including a perfect 9-0 in CAC play with one league game remaining as they shoot for their second consecutive undefeated CAC season.

Heading into their game with Mystic the Lady Rams knew that a win would clinch the league title, and according to coach Alex O'Reilly, they simply were not going to be denied.

"The win over Mystic Valley was unbelievable on all accounts. I had shown up at the field at the usual time, only to find that the captains had already set up the entire field with their teammates," O'Reilly said. "The captains were not going to let one thing distract the team from the task at hand - beating Mystic. They got right into warm ups, had their own pre-game pep talk, and were loud and fired up as they ran through drills."

The pregame routine certainly seemed to have paid off, as right out of the gate Erin Mader of Tewksbury gave Shawsheen a 1-0 lead just 20 seconds into the game. Less than a minute later Catherine McKenna scored again, and Kara Ippolito followed suit, giving the Lady Rams a 3-0 lead just three minutes into the game.

"We set the pace for the remainder of the game and it was clear that the girls were playing with a purpose," O'Reilly said. "They wanted to beat Mystic Valley."

The Lady Rams did not let up, going out to a 9-4 half-time lead and holding on for the 14-10 win. Megan Brown led the way offensively for Shawsheen with four goals while Ippolito, McKenna and Aletha Talbot of Tewksbury had three each and Mader had one.

Goalies Jess Sheppard and Julia Ryan of Wilmington each made nine saves during their shifts in the cage.

Having won the league title on Saturday, the Lady Rams set their sights on Salem on Saturday and were once again relentless, rolling to a 14-3 win.

Shawsheen got five goals from Brown, while Talbot added four, Jade Sweeney had three Taylor Giordano had two, and Jordan Casaubon, Brooke Johnson and Maddie Rumley had one each. Sheppard had one save and Ryan had five.

"Salem has always been a quality game over the past few years. Earning the victory over that team was an exciting feat, especially coming off of the hype from our game against Mystic Valley," O'Reilly said. "The girls were very excited to lock in their spot for the state tournament. This is a big season for our seniors. Almost all of them have played on the varsity team for four years. As freshmen they had seen a season where qualifying for the tournament could go either way, with one final game making that call. They've grown this program into a stronger force and have successfully qualified for the state tournament three years in a row now with plenty of games to spare."

"Having ten seniors, this season is a big one. These girls have big goals and it seems that each week we are reaching big milestones."

In both of their wins this week, the Lady Rams were led by a very balanced scoring attack. Brown continues to put up big numbers each game with 33 goals on the season, as do McKenna (39 goals) and Talbot (20) while also leading the team in assists, but the rest of the scoring has been very well spread out, which is exactly the way O'Reilly likes to see it.

"Our stats book is very interesting this season because when you look at the overall stats for 2018, not one player stands out as the driving force behind our offense," O'Reilly said. "The scoring has been very even from game to game with defensive, offensive, starters, and subs all and getting their fair share of points. This is a huge contribution to our team's success this season because opponents aren't looking to shut down one player. The entire offense is a threat and they all trust each other immensely. No one hesitates to feed the ball to a cutter, and everyone is confident enough to drive to net when opportunities open up."

In addition to their balanced scoring, another big key to the Lady Rams success this season has been the leadership provided by their senior captains, Talbot, McKenna, Sarah Constantino of Tewksbury and Ashlyn Troisi. Their leadership prior to the Mystic game was just the latest example of what they have provided for the team all season.

"The four have them have been stepping up even before the season began. Having strong leaders on the field is so important. I can say something to the team fifty times, but a lot of times the girls need one of their own to deliver the same message," O'Reilly said. "When the team can see the captains being successful on the field and implementing the strategies that I am trying to encourage the team to use, it becomes easier for other players to adopt the same ideas as the captains."

"They are the core energy for our team and I am very thankful to have not just one, but four incredible young ladies to help me out, lead their team, and demonstrate the meaning of being a true athlete to their peers. The girls are respectful, kind, caring, and responsible. I'm very proud of each of them and their contributions that they have made to our team this season."

BASEBALL

With a 1-1 record this past week, the Shawsheen Tech Baseball team heads into the homestretch of their season with a 7-5 (7-4 CAC) record after defeating CAC rival Northeast 5-0 last Wednesday and losing 4-2 to non-league rival Arlington Catholic last Thursday.

In the 4-2 road win over Northeast, the Rams were led by another outstanding pitching performance from junior right hander C.J. Zemetres, who tossed a complete game, three hit shutout to earn the win, striking out eight batters along the way. Shawsheen coach Brian McCarthy was thrilled to see his team come out on top against Northeast after losing by a score 7-3 in a home game earlier this season.

"That win over Northeast was a big one for us. They were a team that beat us earlier in the season, so to come out and play that well was terrific. It's also a nice indicator of the progress our team is making and working hard to get better every day," McCarthy said. "C.J. was on that day. He was firing the ball well, hitting his spots and working efficiently. We had terrific defense behind him that day too, which is always great and lets a pitcher throw with confidence. He went the whole distance and it was a great team win."

Chris Galinos led the way on offense for the Rams with two hits, a run scored and an RBI, while James Alagna had two hits and a run scored while Russ Murphy had hit and scored two runs. Steve Basler of Tewksbury also chipped in with a hit and three RBI.

"Steve has been working hard all season. He's been battling to get himself and the team better every day at practice," McCarthy said. "It paid off recently as he cracked the starting lineup for three games last week. He had himself a good day down in Chelsea and then two days later had a big day at Northeast."

The Rams also played very well in the loss to Arlington Catholic, led by another outstanding pitching performance, this time from Sean Flagg, who went the distance on the mound for Shawsheen Tech, scattering ten hits while striking out two batters over six innings.

"Due to an oddity in the schedule this year, that was our first non-league game of the year, so it was good to see where we stand outside our league as well," McCarthy said. "AC is a good team year-in and year-out and they play in a terrific league, so it was a good test for us. Flagg pitched well that day and kept us in the game. We were leading 2-1 after four, but we just had a rough fifth inning and couldn't dig ourselves out of it that late in the game. Sean is a consistent guy on the mound for us. Every time he goes out there for us, you know he's going to pitch well and keep us in the game."

Craig Meland led the way on offense for the Rams with a run-scoring single, while Basler once again chipped in by scoring a run. Alagna had one hit for Shawsheen while Nick Nardella also scored a run, but the Rams were mostly held in check offensively.

"They had a real strong pitcher on the mound that day, their ace," McCarthy said. "He threw hard and kept hitters off-balance with some breaking balls. He was a smart pitcher, worked efficiently, and it was tough to get runners on that day."

While their schedule has been fairly light to this point, it will pick up considerably over the next couple of weeks, starting with a pair of CAC games with Essex Tech on Wednesday and Whittier on Thursday before a busy weekend with a home game against Blue Hills on Saturday and a road matchup with Wilmington on Sunday.

"This is a real big test coming up for us down the stretch here," McCarthy said. "It will reveal a lot about us as a team. When you go that many games in a row, your depth and bench are all tested. Hopefully all our hard work will pay off. We always talk about the one game at a time approach, and we'll definitely have to follow that this week. It's easy to look ahead when you have a full slate of games in a week, but one at a time keeps a team focused."

SOFTBALL

There seems to be no stopping the Shawsheen Tech Softball team right now, as with two more win this week, the Lady Rams have now won five straight games to improve to 7-4 on the season, after wins over CAC rival Essex Tech last Thursday and non-league rival Essex Tech on Monday.

In their 13-6 road win over Essex Tech last Thursday, Shawsheen was led to victory by a big day at the plate from third baseman Katelyn Logue, whose seventh inning grand slam blew open a close game.

The Lady Rams offense wasn't limited to just Logue, however, as they had 19 hits on the day while six players at had at least one RBI and every starter had at least one hit. Centerfielder Becca Smith of Tewksbury continued to have a hot bat as she went 4-for-5 on the day with two RBI, while Grace Clark added another three hits while Alysha Cushing, Brooke Arena and designated hitter Karissa Kakleas of Tewksbury each contributed two hits apiece.

The game was actually very close until the final couple of innings, with Shawsheen trailing 2-0 at the end of two innings and clinging to a slim 6-4 lead after five innings before striking for three runs in the sixth and four in the seventh.

Senior Carlee Wickwire went the distance in the circle, scattering eleven hits over seven innings, while striking out four to get the win.

"I am so proud of this team," Shawsheen coach Scott Ialuna said after the game. "They are playing so well right now."

On Monday, Shawsheen picked up a 12-0, five inning mercy rule win over Innovation Academy that was truly closer than the final score would indicate. The Lady Rams were clinging to a 1-0 lead after 4 1/2 innings when they exploded for eight hits and eleven runs in the bottom of the fifth. It was Logue with the clinching blow once again, as her walk-off inside the park 3-run HR ended the game. Brooke Arena (3-for-3 with two runs scored), and Alysha Cushing (2-for-3, with two RBI, and two runs scored) provided the offensive spark the team needed.

Marissa Brangiforte threw a three-hitter, striking out six and walking none to pick up the victory. Logue also had the defensive play of the day when she cut down a run at the plate in the top of the fifth to preserve the 1-0 lead.

"It's not exactly the way I would have drawn it up, but I'll take it," Ialuna said after the very unusual result.

BOYS LACROSSE

The Shawsheen Tech Boys Lacrosse team kept their undefeated record intact this past week, picking up three more blowout wins to improve to 13-0 on the season and 12-0 in the CAC. The Rams most recent win came in a 16-8 blowout over Northeast in Billerica on Monday.

Senior Will Bouley continued his remarkable season with six goals and two assists, scoring scored six goals and adding two assists to give him 41 goals and 16 assists for 57 points on the season.

Senior Chris Abele of Tewksbury made 14 saves in goal to pick up the win and improve to 12-0 on the season. Abel now has a .725 save percentage and a 4:30 Goals Against Average on the season.

Mark Companeschi of Wilmington, Ryan Quinones and Kam Neault of Tewksbury had strong games on defense, while Nick Farrell of Wilmington and Ryan Kelly did a great job on faceoffs.

In their previous game last Friday, the Rams had been even more dominant, rolling to a 15-2 blowout win behind four goals and two assists, while sophomore Connor Rooney of Wilmington had three goals and two assists, giving him 23 goals and 17 assists on the season. Sophomore Kevin Kemp added two goals and two assists to give him 22 goals and 21 assists on the season, while Ryan Kelly tallied two goals and one assist and Dale Sweeney had a goal and an assist.

Abele and freshman Jonah Verrallo combined to make ten saves in goal for the Rams.

Shawsheen had started their week with a 15-5 win over Mystic Valley last Wednesday, led by six goals by junior Owen Sullivan, giving him 44 goals on the sea-it took a couple of weeks to sink in, but I was able to look back and know that I did everything I possibly could. I have absolutely no regrets because I know that I gave it everything I had every single season. It was just time to move on."

What Peterson has moved on to is becoming of the directors and pitching instructors at the Nor'Easters Baseball Academy in Tewksbury. He had been an instructor during the off season of his playing days as well, working with high school players to help them get the most of out their ability, just as he got the most out of his during his playing days.

"Baseball is the only thing I have ever known. I have done it all my life, and I had the opportunity to do it at a high level, so to be able to pass some of that on to these kids is very rewarding," Peterson said. "I still love the game and I still love being able to pass it on to other kids. I enjoy watching the young kids play and seeing them improve."

In addition to beginning his second career, also helping to ease the decision to move away from the game he loves was the family he loves, starting with his fiancé Colleen Splaine, and his now year and a half old son Brady.

Splaine, along with Peterson's Wilmington based family have been a huge source of support for him throughout his career and they will be there with him on Saturday night to celebrate his induction.

"I met Colleen my senior year of high school, so she has been with me every step of the way through all of the ups and downs and has always been there for me," Peterson said. "She and my family are everything to me. The love and support I have received from all of them, from my mom and dad to my fiancé has meant so much to me. I see them as a big part of this as me. I owe so much of it to them."

Boys Track down a CAC League Title

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

sports@yourtowncrier.com
Over the past few years, the Shawsheen Tech Boys Track team has been a model of consistency and excellence, having won at least a share of the CAC title in each of the past two seasons. But on Monday afternoon in Andover, the Rams soared to even greater heights, clinching the outright CAC title with an 86-50 win over CAC rival Greater Lawrence in a battle of undefeated teams.

Both teams entered the meet with a perfect 8-0 mark, but by the end of the day, it was clear that the Rams were the best dual meet team in the CAC this season, as they raced out to an early lead and never looked back to clinch their first outright title since 2007.

It is also the first time in school history that the Rams have had at least a share of the league title for three consecutive seasons, after splitting the crown with Chelsea last season and sharing a three way tie with Greater Lowell and Lynn Tech in 2016.

"The kids set it as a goal at the beginning of the season to win the league. We are very fortunate to have as complete a team as we do," Shawsheen coach Jeff McGrath said. "Other coaches comment on the fact that we have so much depth in every event that when someone isn't performing there's always someone to step up and pick up the slack."

"We've had so many guys contribute this year and I couldn't be prouder of the accomplishment. More importantly, we have great kids. Our success is really a testament to their hard work and their character. Great athletes, but better people."

The Rams jumped on top of Greater Lawrence quickly in their league clinching win, taking the top two spots in the 400-meter hurdles with Kyle Simonds taking first place in a time of 60.8 seconds, while Joe Genetti took second in a time of 63 seconds. That staked the Rams to an 8-1 lead right out of the gate, and that was as close as the meet would get.

The win in the hurdles was only part of a big day for Simonds, who also took first place in the 100-meter hurdles in a time of 16.4, second in the high jump with a height of 5'8" and third in the triple jump with a leap of 38'4".

Sam Baker was also a multiple winner for the Rams, taking first place on the long jump with a leap of 20'11" as well as in the triple jump, soaring to a distance of 42'10". Baker was also part of the Rams first place 4 x 100 relay team along with Sam Chebook, Mike Reppucci and Jared Mason of Tewksbury in a time of 45 seconds.

Other winners on the day for the Rams were Ryan Smith in the two mile with a time of 11:22, RJ Page in the mile in a time of 5:01.2, Nick Sachetta in the 800 meters in a time of 2:04.7, Ralph DeRosiers of Wilmington in the 200 in a time of 23.9 seconds and Jared Mason of Tewksbury in the javelin with a distance of 146'10".

Mason, along with his wins in the javelin and 4x100 relay, also earned a second place finish in the long jump with a distance of 19'8".

Jared Myers of Tewksbury also had a nice day for himself, taking second place in the 400 meters in a time of 54.3 and third in the long jump with a distance of 18'6", while Frankie Irizarry of Tewksbury took third in the discus with a distance of 85'4 1/2".

The undefeated season is the first for the Shawsheen Boys team since the 2006 team that went 11-0 under the direction of coach Jay Tildsley.

The Rams will not rest on their laurels for long, as they will be back in action in the State Vocational Meet on Wednesday, followed by the CAC League Meet on Saturday at Shawsheen Tech.

son which leads the team. Rooney had three goals and two assists, while Kevin Kemp had three goals and an assist. Farrell was dominant on faceoffs, winning 20 of 23 draws, while senior Jack Duggan potted two goals, and sophomore Dave Fraser had a goal and an assist.

Verrallo made his first start of the season in goal and finished with nine saves to earn the win.

CO-ED TENNIS

The Shawsheen Co-ed Tennis team split a pair of matches with CAC rival Greater Lawrence this week, beating the Reggies at home last Friday by a score of 4-3 before losing by an identical score on Monday at Greater Lawrence.

Winners for the Rams on Friday were Adam Hines of Tewksbury by a score of 10-2 and John Bumpus of Wilmington by a score of 10-4 in singles matches, while doubles winners were Amaan Shaikh and Cassidy Phillips of Tewksbury by a score of 10-3 along with Samantha Fusco and Michelle Chen, both of Wilmington, by a score of 10-8.

Winners on Monday for the Rams were Hines (10-1) and Andreas Gonzales (10-4) in singles along with Shaikh and Phillips by a score of 10-8.

GIRLS TRACK-AND-FIELD

While the Shawsheen Tech Boys Track team was wrapping up the CAC championship on Monday with a win over Greater Lawrence, the Girls squad was wrapping up their own impressive season against the Reggies, rolling to an 88-48 win to close out their season with an 8-2 record, which is second behind the 2009 girls team which finished 9-2 for the best record in the history of the girls program.

Last year's team had come the closest, finishing 7-2-1, but this year's team was even better, winning their first seven meets before losing in a tri-meet last week to Chelsea and Essex Tech.

In the win over Greater Lawrence the Lady Rams were led by strong performances by Shelby Boudreau and Alex DiPerri, each of whom won two events. Boudreau took first place honors in the 100-meter hurdles in a time of 18.1 seconds as well as the 400-meter hurdles in a time of 1:20.04, while DiPerri took first in the 100-meter dash in a time of 12.8 seconds and the long jump with a distance of 18'8 1/2". DiPerri was also part of the first place 4 x100 relay team along with Shannon Fitzgerald, Susanna Gillis and Rachel MacDonald.

Ivan Wisky of Tewksbury had a big day as well, winning the two mile event in a time of 14:48.8, while taking second in the 800 meters in a time of 2:55.9, while Jackie Broderick of Wilmington won the 800-meter event in a time of 2:41.8.

Other winners for the Lady Rams were Jacqui Megna in the 400 meters in a time of 6:34.9, Rachel MacDonald in the 200 in a time of 28.9 seconds, Shannon Fitzgerald in the triple jump with a distance of 30'6" and Sam Moriconi in the shot put with a throw of 26'11".

In addition to being part of the first place 4x100 relay team, Susanna Gillis also took second place finishes in the long jump with a distance of 14'4", the triple jump with a distance of 29'10" and the 100 meters in a time of 13.4.

Despite the tri-meet loss to Essex Tech and Chelsea last Thursday, the Lady Rams still got some outstanding performances, including Broderick who earned a first place finish in the 800 meters in a time of 2:39.14 and DiPerri who took second place in the 100 meters in a time of 13.38 seconds and the long jump with a distance of 16-00.

FOOTBALL CLINIC
